The Old Folks' Room. The old man sat by the chimney side, His face was wrinkled and wan : And he leaned both his hands on his stout oak

As if all his work was done.

His coat was of good old-fashioned grav. The pockets were deep and wide; Where his " specks " and steel tobacco-box Lie snugly side by side.

The old man liked to stir the fire, So near him the tongs were kept; Sometimes he mused as he gazed at the coals, Sometimes he sat and slept.

What saw he in the embers there? An! pictures of other years ; And now and then they awakened emiles, But often started tears.

His wife sat on the other side, In a high-back flag-seat chair; I see 'neath the pile of her muslin cap The spine of her silvery hair.

There's a happy look on her aged face, As she busily knits for him, And Nellie takes up the stitches dropped, For grandmother's eyes are dim.

Their children come in and read the news, To pass the time each day : How it stirs the blood in the old man's heart, To hear of the world away.

Tis a homely scene, I told you so, But pleasant it is to view; At least I thought it so myself. And sketch it down for you.

Be kind unto the old, my friends, They're worn with this world's strife, Though bravely once perchance they fought The stern, fierce battle of life.

Messrs. Rogers & Co., Gents.—

I may say that your medicine has transformed him, by the blessing of God, from a puny, sickly cripple to a zeerful lively boy, the change is wonderful. I hope I shall ever feel grat ful for the great blessing.

the great blessing. Yours respectfully.

Oscar F. Lowe. H. H. Read, Esq., M.D., Windsor, N. S., writes To the worthy Citizensof as as follows, "I have used your medicines in one or two cases of Scrofula and Sores, and think it excellent, and it is the best thing I know of for emoving the stiffening which remains after inflammation of joints.'
