Premier Robinson Saus He Was Mis-reported

Never Suggested That Crown Lands Might be Sold-Will Have Satisfact oru Announcement to Make Soen

Hon, C. W. Robinson, premier, re turned vesterday from Montreal. His attention being called to the tele graphic despatches which recently appeared in a portion of the press regarding the financial position of the province, the premier assured The Sun that alleged interview did , not give a correct account of what he said.

The premier further stated that the financial position of the province was excellent; that its credit was equal to that of any other province of Canada; that the object of his mission to Montreal was to consult with financiers as to the advisability of making at the present time an issue of long term bonds for the purpose of paying advances which had been obtained largely to retire six per cent. debentures of the province. The premier also stated that he did not think it worth while saying anything further at present but that in a short time he would be able to give to the public, through the press, information which would be very satisfactory. Regarding the implied suggestion that a sale might be made of a portion of the public lands the premier said that he did not make, and he had no intention of making, any such suggestion. So far from this being the cas he had stated to the reporter that the settled policy of the government was now, and would be in the future, not to dispose of its public lands.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

RIVER GLADE, N. B., July 20 .- On Friday, the 19th instant, a large company of relatives and friends met at the home of Mrs. Benjamin Smith to celebrate her eighty-fourth birthday. The party consisted of persons varying in ages from a few months to eighty years and upwards.

A very enjoyable time was spent by the jovial party, despite the extreme heat of the day. The happy company, numbering upwards of sixty, partook of the bounties which the good ladies providing for the occasion, on the ewly-mown lawn in front of the aged hostess' dwelling. The members of the party vied with each other to make the day a pleasant one, and before departing, presented to Mrs. Smith many tangible evidences of the high esteem in which she is held by her friends. Many who could not make it convenient to attend, sent tokens

Passenger in Thick Fog

Passengers Were Asleep When the Crash Came and Were Unable to Get Out Before the Ship Sank in Deep Water -- A Terrible Story of Disaster

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 22.-In was launched from the doomed steamne of the worst marine disasters in the history of the California coast, beween 100 and 150 lives were lost, as far as has been learned, by a midnight ollision between the steamer Columia and the steam lumber schooner San Pedro in Shelter Cove, twelve miles southwest of Mendocino-Humboldt County line, between 12 and 1 o'clock vesterday morning. Only meagre details of the tragedy have been received, though every effort has been made to get the facts. Scores of telegrams to Eureka, the nearest point of importance, remain unanswered. Francisco this forenoon.

The Columbia, a three hundred foot steel vessel of the San Francisco and Portland S. S. Company, while bound from San Francisco to Portland, Oregon, with 189 passengers and a drew of 0, collided with and was rammed by the San Pedro, a 170 foot wooden steamer, southbound for this city. The ea was smooth, but the weather was loggy. The San Pedro, looming out of the mist, a few ship lengths away, bore down on the Columbia at high speed despite frantic efforts to clear. With a grinding crash the San Pedro sank her stem fully ten feet into the Columbia's

Nearly all of the Columbia's passengers and many of her crew were asleep in their cabins and bunks when the crash came. As the San Pedro backed away the sea poured in through ragged hole in the Columbia's above and below the water line, and in five minutes the Columbia sank to the bottom, the deep waters of Shelter Cove covering over the tops of the

The story of that five minutes is yet to be told and as it is told by some survivors the facts of the tragedy can only be but guessed at.

Shortly after the collision the steamers Roanoke and George W. Elder and the steam-schooner Daisy Mitchell, Shortly after the collision the steamall south bound, came on the scene and stood by. The Elder took the San Pedro in tow and the latest report announces their arrival in Eureka. The stem of the San Pedro was smashed to splinters, one of her masts was snapped off at the deck, she was settling and had a heavy list when taken in OAKLAND, Cal., July 22 .- P. C. Walter, passenger on the steamship Roanoke, which arrived today from Portland, told in an interview of the havoc and the scenes of distress which were witnessed after the collision of the vessels. He said:

"The Roanoke was bound south and at noon Sunday we reached the scene of the collision which had occurred between the steamers San Pedro and Columbia at the previous midnight. "The surface of the sea all around the scene of the collision was strewn with the wreckage.

"The steamship Geo. W. Elder and two steam schooners were at the scene of the wreck. The Elder had a line fastened to the San Pedro and her officers and crew were endeavoring to get a towline aboard the latter in order to tow her to port. "The San Pedro's after mast had been broken off even with the smoketack. She was badly listed and waterlogged and so low at the stern that the sea swept the after-deck.

"While we drifted across the bows of the Elder, several members of the crews of the San Pedro and Columbia requested us to report to their families and friends that they were safe. "We noticed the shipwrecked passengers of the Columbia on the deck of the Elder, clothed in tablecloths and other temporary coverings and a large

"No effort was made to transfer any of the survivors of the disaster from the decks of the Elder to the Roanoke Perhaps this was due to the fact that the wind was blowing strongly and a heavy sea running at the time.

Charge Against Directors of the Moncto Exhibition Association Company Ltd-Injunction Served Yesterday

MONCTON, July 22.—George L. Harris of Moncton has filed a bill in equity against Frederick W. Sumner, Lester H. Higgins, Edward C. Coll, Jas. E, Masters, H. Seeley Bell, Hon. Peter Mc Sweeney, William F. Humphrey, John H. Harris, Richard F. Kinnear, Frederick C. Jones, Henry G. Marr, Earle J. Thompson, Daniel McQuarry, David Welch and Robert Clarke, who are officers of the Moncton Exhibition Association Company, Limited, on behalf of himself and other shareholders of the company charging that the defendants have fraudulently divided amongst themselves all the treasury stock of the company, amounting to over four hundred shares, and Saturday last Mr. Harris' solicitors, Weldon & McLean, obtained an injunction restraining the transfer of the stock or its being dealt with in any way as valid. This injunction was served today and is causing a good deal of discussion, as there is a referendum to the citizens tomorrow to decide whether the city shall vote the company $10,000. Mr. Harris asked the directors to divide the treasury stock amongst the shareholders pro rata, giving all an equal chance to purchase but as Mr. Harris is a large stockholder the directors wanted to keep control in their own hands and refused to recognige him or the other minority share-

Wife's Infidelity Made Him Over-Excited -Prisoner Sent Up for Trial-Lawyers in Wordy War

FREDFRICTON, N. B., July 23 .-The preliminary evamination of Tom David, of Lowell, Mass., on the charge of murder of his wife at McAdan Junction on the 8th inst., by shooting her in the C. P. R. depot waiting room was continued today.

The defence will be along the line justification. The defence did not try to show that David did not do the shooting but to show that he was sufering from brain storm brought on by the infidelity of his wife.

In this line J. Douglas Hazen, K. C., who is conducting the case for the defence was very successful inasmuch as he brought out from witnesses by the crown such evidence as showed that Mrs. David had been living with Charie Nicholas, alias Sodim Cowley, as man and wife and that David had been as well as that Mrs. David had said that she and Nicholas were going to be married.

Nicholas has left the country. of the conclusion of the proceedings of the court this morning Mr. J. J. Barry, K. C., who is appearing for the crown as prosecutor, scathingly criticized one of the witnesses, James Andrews. Andrews was the crown's witness and he it was who had given most of the evidence favorable to the de-

Mr. Barry accused him of saying a lot of sensational and nasty things about the dead which he knew to be untrue. Mr. Hazen called attention at this juncture to the fact that it was an improper way for a crown officer to conct himself in court. "Crown officer, oh fiddlesticks," yelled Mr. Barry.

Mr. Hazen expressed the view that a crown officer should not abuse a witness in the shameful way that Mr. Barry was doing, just because the witness happened to give evidence that as unfavorable to Mr. Barry's side of the case. Andrews was a crown witness, he said, and should be treated with examining Syrian residents of Woodstock and the two men Kalil Aboud, and James Andrews who were in the stand all morning.
