while such is the case, doubtless there are three classes of persons within the membership of the church who feel the sundering of that relationship feel the sundering of that relationship above and beyond the others. They are (First) those whom the pastor has had the privilege and great joy of leading down into the baptismal was ers, and a large number have thus come into the church, adding seals to your ministry. Secondly) those who have been united by you in holy bonds of matrimony will ever remember their pastor, and will find it harder than some others to say goodbye, and it has been your privilege as the pastor of this church, to unite many lives and we trust always for the better, and never for worse. (Thirdly) the very great number that one is called to minister to in times of sorrow and R. D. Hamilton. Many family sadness in a church such as ours, and friends showed their sympathy with there are very many in our church and congregation, to whom you have ministered in the seasons of sorrow ber of floral offerings and they inand sadness, always with much tender-ness and sincere loving sympathy, and all whose lives you have comforted and helped amid the deep waters of affliction will find it all the harder to affliction will find it all the harder to say goodbye to you. Then again, the personal friends outside of our church and congregation belonging to other congregations and organizations, have enjoyed the pleasant associations or the wise councils of a neighboring pastor. Next to one's own church and congregation they all feel the separation of a true friend and neighbor, and the general report is that you are averywhere respected and esteemed as and G. Lambe. Following the address, Deacon Hall last night when Baptists in their hundreds, gathered together for the purpose of bidding farewell to their popular pastor, C. W. Rose, who left this morning for Amherst, N. S.

Seldom has the spacious school room been so well filled, in fact it was not sufficiently large for the occasion, which in itself is an excellent tribute to the worthy pastor and his wife.

Following the address, Deacon Hall with a few acceptable remarks, presented the purse of gold to Mr. Rose, who responded and spoke of how deeply he felt their kindness, which would linger with him in the years to come. He had not perhaps lived up to the text of the night, but at least he had realized that it was of little use to preach well without living honestly. He appreciated their address in every way, and was sincerely was presented to Mr. Rose who responded with one of the most touching addresses it has been the lot of many to hear. Every word came from the speaker's heart and it was evident that he was deeply drawed to make the most occurrence of the most touching addresses it has been the lot of many to hear. Deacon Hall, replying, declared he could only add his most hearty enterests which was taken over by Dr. Stanley, who presided in his usual cheery fashion. He called upon Mr. S. G. Read, who read an address, which was as follows:

Rev. C. W. Rose, B.A., B.D.

Dear Pastor,—It is not given to be a perfect as possible.

Deacon Hall, replying, declared he could only add his most hearty entors and the battle of Bannockburn. During the campaign that culminated in the overthrow of Napoleon at Waterloo, the Belgians developed a strong regard for the members of the Scottish, and especially the-Highland regiments, that were from time to the scene. They came to voice their appreciation of the Rev. Mr. Rose as Scottish soldier was, par excellence, the Belgian in the conduct of his tactics at the battle of Bannockburn.

Fled the years of servile shame! Belgium, 'tis thine hour at last, Wear again the glorious name, Wear again the glorious name, Spread thy banner on the blast, Sovereign people in thy might, Steadfast yet and valiant be, On thine ancient standard write: King, and Law, and Liberty.

Strive, nor seek discharge at length Hold thy courage as thy crown, God, who keeps thee in His strength On thy labors smileth down. Over all thy fruitful land Labor's prize is full and free. On thine arts enthroned stand, King, and Law, and Liberty.

Foes, that our friends of old, Are returned to love at last, All the free we prize as gold, Praying that our strife be past, Belgians and Batavians, friends, Knit in brotherhood shall be: 4 With one voice the shout ascends King, and Law, and Liberty.

It is quite true, as stated by you last Sunday morning, that the relationship of pastor and pepole should be a very tender and sacred one, and giving a final handhad their doors open again for them.
