HINTS TO WOMEN.

BY MRS. R. B. GLEASON.

We must take good care of the old ladies, for we shall never have any more, said a shrewd physician of my acquaintance.

Within the last century, the general rays of science and religion, have shone more and more on woman's pathway; and before their rising light, length and strength of days have fled "like the morning cloud and early dew."

When the notion was, that all the knowledge of geography she needed, was to know the rooms in her house; and of chemistry, to be able to cook well a meal of victuals; when plain fair, and unremitting toil, where hers; then we had blooming wives, healthy mothers, and thriving children.

Now, with less labour, less anxious concern for daily sustenance, and more leisure for literary pursuites, the rose-tint has faded from her cheek, save where an artificial bloom has been imparted by the aid of rough and carmine—the clear complexion has grown sallow, and must now be whitened or whitewashed with foreign powder, and the temporary stimulus of tea, coffee, tonic bitters, and bitters-tonics, together with plasters, braces, and supporters, furnish a poor substitute for her former native strength.

To my mind, the solution of this strange enigma is this: We are in the transition stage from the reign of nature to that of art.

The promptings of instinct guide the Indian women; and thus were the mothers of the last century guided in the care of themselves and in the rearing of their offspring. Now, amid the confusion and clamor which the new rules of civilization, fashion, and gentility impose, the voice of unerring instinct is unheeded. With all our science, enlightened intelligence, and refinement, we have not arrived, in our physical habits, to the correctness of unfailing instinct. An ignorant mother, in the state of nature, will generally bestow on her child a good constitution; but in proportion as the elegancies of civilization supercede the simplicity of nature, just in that proportion do we need the light of science to counteract the tendency of so-called refinement.

Now, we, as a people, have passed the period of "happy ignorance," and are at that point where neither nature nor enlightened reason, guide us in our habits healthwise; hence, to say nothing of the men, we have sickly, early-faded women, and puny, peevish children.

The prevailing inquiry, in reference to rules of diet, dress, exercise and equipage, has been, not what is healthful, but what is fashionable. When the table is spread the query is not what will digest well in the stomach, but what will please the palate. When a garment is to be made, the question which arises has reference to the present style, and not to comfort or convenience. For employment we seek to do that which is considered genteel, often to the neglect of that which would be invigoration to ourselves or make us useful to others. Some of our young ladies with a "finished education," pride themselves on their inability to perform any useful labour.

The result of this is, that most of the reliable feminine bone, muscle, and sinew, in our cities and larger towns, is to be found among the more gross foreign population Much as we pride ourselves on our superiority, lightly as we estimate their strength, we are many of us literally their dependants. Nature and revelation teach the great doctrine of universal brotherhood; yea, and of sisterhood too. This much despised class are, in a great degree, what circumstance have made them, and we should not only deal with them kindly, but also learn from them the worth of muscular power, and how it may be retained or regained.

In their native homes in the old world, where, the "lower class," the iron hand of both poverty and oppression rests heavily, how could they rise in intelligence and refinement. Their legacy is large bones and strong sinews, which when imported to this country weak women, should be considered a rich endowment, and would be if combined with sufficient refinement and mental and moral power to ensure respect.

Here, under our free institutions, with the abundant facilities for spiritual, intellectual, and social culture, proffered us on every hand, our girls have a most pitifully one-sided education. Little care is bestowed to ensure strength of body, the great effort being to impart refinement of mind and manners.

If we could have well-disciplined minds, and rightly-developed hearts combined with strong hands, how much more efficient would be the plans and labours of the wise and good. Many of our best-educated women lack the physical power to make the healthful, indelible impression on the world which they would otherwise effect.

They are like a ship at sea, with a valuable cargo on board, but without strength to resist winds and waves, and bring their treasures safely into port. So our most promising wives sink under the cares and labours which maternity brings, and the grave covers them while they are, or should be, in the bloom of womanhood; or the infirmities of the flesh extinguish the light and life of the spirit, so that they are measurable dead while they yet live.

How many a blooming bride at twenty, with face bright as a May morning, temper as a rose-bud in June, and heart happy with food hopes for long years to come, finds herself at thirty wrinkled and care-worn, unreasonable as a wife, irritable as a mother, and almost useless as a citizen. And why? because she aches here, is in pain there, and, in short, "feels weak and bad all over."

As the first means of preventing the premature decay of our sex, let our girls have a good physical training, and a good physiological education. Whether a woman know anything of the piano or guitar or not, let her be well versed in the mysteries of that harp of a thousand strings, which in these days of physical degeneracy, does not maintain its harmony as in the days of Watts, who expressed his wonder that it should keep in time so long.

Such an acquisition, though considered less ornamental, would be in truth of greater personal and family utility than that of any other.

It is true nonsense that we, the weaker sex, are so impressible, so excitable, so imaginative, that the less we know of medical matters the better, being prone to think we have every disease the symptoms of which we here describe. In proof of this, they urge the fact that many a woman in tolerable health has been made to think herself sick by listening to a lecture, or reading a pamphlet, coming from some self-interested vender of traps and drugs. No doubt many a woman has dosed herself with syrups, bedizened herself with plasters, braces, supporters, because her medical adviser was more interested for the improvement of his own purse than of his patient's health. Instances like these, only serve to illustrate the occasional truth of the saying, that "a little learning is a dangerous thing," and argues the need of woman having more, rather than less, medical knowledge, that she may not fall a prey to those, who "go to and fro" with their quack medicines.

Another class fear or fancy that minute anatomical and physiological knowledge will serve to render feminine feeling obtuse, gross and vulgar. Then are woman's peculiar virtues, and most pleasing attractions, "such stuff as dreams are made of," that they vanish fore any illumination on the laws by which life and health in all its details are regulated. Can it be that the study of any work of the Infinite Artist can degrade the mind of either sex, and especially that of the crowning work of the Creator?

If so, that mind must have power to turn pure gold into base alloy. Is not the human form, in all its parts the work of the same hand which "clothes the lilies of the field?" May woman, for her mental and moral edification, study the stamens and pistils of a flower, to see how they are perfected and perpetuated each in its own order; while if she inquire how we, who are "more fearfully and wonderfully made," are begotten and brought forth in parental likeness, it will tend to her mental and moral contamination? So dream some. She must watch closely her plants, see that they are sunned, aired and watered, that no bug bite and no frost blight them. This purifies her thoughts, softens her temper, and elevates her taste. All this is very true. But should she not study to understand those more precious buds to which in time she may give birth—perhaps soon to wither, perhaps to live on, and wither on, through many weary years; and all, perchance, because the mother has unwittingly disregarded those laws which would have secured to them a healthful bloom for three-score years and ten?

Let indolence and ignorance be no longer cherished by us as mothers of innocence. Let helplessness, "nervousness," and feebleness, be numbered among the blemishes not the beauties of our sex. Let us all strive, individually, for a more perfect knowledge, and a more perfect development of our physical, intellectual and spiritual nature.—Elmira Water Cure.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.

A CRIPPLE SETS ASIDE HIS CRUTCHES AFTER TEN YEARS SUFFERING.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Thompson, Chemist, Liverpool, dated August 20, 1852.

To Professor HOLLOWAY.

DEAR SIR—I am enabled to furnish you with a most extraordinary cure effected by your invaluable Ointment and Pills which has astonished every person acquainted with the sufferer. About 10 years ago, Mr. W. Cummins, of Saltney Street, in this town, was thrown from his horse, whereby he received very serious injuries; he had the best medical advice at the time, and was afterwards an inmate of different infirmaries, yet he grew worse, and at length a malignant running ulcer settled in his hip, which so completely crippled him, that he could not move without crutches for nearly 10 years; recently, he began to use your Ointment and Pills, which have now healed the wound, strengthened his limb, and enabled him to dispense with his crutches, so that he can walk with the greatest ease, and with renewed health and vigor. (Signed) J. THOMPSON.

A MOST EXTRAORDINARY CURE OF A DREADFUL SKIN DISEASE, WHEN ALL MEDICAL AID HAD FAILED.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Hird, Draper, of Keady, near Gainsbro', dated March 1st, 1852.

To Professor HOLLOWAY,

SIR—Some time since, one of my children was afflicted with dreadful eruptions over the body and limbs. I obtained the advice of several eminent Surgeons and Physicians, by all of whom the case was considered hopeless. At length I tried your Ointment and Pills, and without exaggeration, the effect was miraculous, for by persevering in their use, all the eruptions quickly disappeared, and the child was restored to perfect health.

I previously lost a child from a similar complaint, and I firmly believe, had I in her case adopted your medicines, she would have been saved also. I shall be happy to testify the truth of this to any enquirer.

(Signed) J. HIRD, Draper.

ANOTHER SURPRISING CURE OF ULCERATED BAD LEGS, DEBILITY, AND GENERAL ILL HEALTH.

Copy of a Letter, from Mr. J. M. Clennell, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, dated September 20th, 1852.

To Professor HOLLOWAY,

DEAR SIR—I am authorised by Mrs. Gibbon, of 31, Bailey Street, in this town, to inform you, that for a considerable period she had been a sufferer from debility, and general ill health, accompanied by a disordered stomach, and great derangement of the system. In addition to this, she was terribly afflicted with ulcerated wounds, or running sores, in both her legs, so that she was totally incapable of doing her usual work. In this distressing condition she adopted the use of your Pills and Ointment, and she states that in a wonderful short time, they effected a perfect cure of her legs, and restored her constitution to health and strength; and that she is now enabled to walk about with ease and comfort. Several other persons in this neighbourhood have also received extraordinary benefit from the use of your invaluable medicines.

I remain dear Sir, yours faithfully,
(Signed) JOHN MORTON CLENNELL.

CERTAIN REMEDY FOR SCORBUTIC HUMOURS —AND AN ASTONISHING CURE OF AN OLD LADY SEVENTY YEARS OF AGE OF A BAD LEG.

Copy of a Letter from Messrs. Walker and Co., Chemists, Bath.

To Professor HOLLOWAY,

DEAR SIR—Among the numerous cures effected by the use of your valuable medicines in this neighbourhood, we may mention that of an old lady living in the Village of Preston, about five miles from this City. She had ulcerated wounds in her leg for many years, and latterly they increased to such an alarming extent as to defy all the usual remedies; her health rapidly giving way under the suffering she endured. In this distressing condition she had recourse to your Ointment and Pills, and by the assistance of her friends, was enabled to persevere in their use, until she received a perfect cure. We have ourselves been greatly astonished at the effect upon so old a person, she being above 70 years of age. We shall be happy to satisfy any enquiries as to the authenticity of this really wonderful case, either personally or by letter.

A private in the Bath Police Force, also, has been perfectly cured of an old scorbutic affection in the face, after all other means had failed. He states that it is entirely by the use of your Ointment, and speaks loudly in its praise. We remain, Dear Sir,

Your's faithfully,
(Signed) WALKER & Co.
