Lies Eight Days

Banff, Alta., July 27.—Rescued after eight terrible days on a rock ledge at the base of Mount Eon, with the body of her husband far below, where it had fallen, Mrs. W. E. Stone, of Lafayette, Ind., today was being carried nine miles on a stretcher to a camp at Marble Creek, where she is expected to arrive on Thursday morning. There, under the care of a party of game guardians she will be permitted to remain until she can be brought down the Spray river to Banff. The body of Dr. Stone, who was president of Purdue University, has not yet been recovered. Mrs. Stone is reported to be gaining in strength. When search parties found her she was almost dead from exposure and lack of food.

Fragmentary information received here makes it possible roughly to reconstruct the tragedy. Dr. Stone and his wife, both competent mountaineers, left Banff on July 15 to attempt the ascent of Mount Eon. On the following day, at the foot of the mountain, they discarded their heavy clothing, camp equipment, etc., and started the climb. Shortly afterwards Mrs. Stone slipped into a crevice and fell on a ledge 17 feet below the slope. Her husband was unable to raise her to the surface with a rope, and lowered himself to her level. Then, with his wife in his arms, he tried to climb back, but lost his footing and fell to his death into a deeper crevice. Mrs. Stone slipped back to the ledge where she had lodged originally, and, unable to get away, was found there by a rescue party eight days later. The body of Dr. Stone was found jammed between two jagged rocks, and he must have been killed instantly.

Mrs. Stone was given first aid at a temporary camp at the base of Mount Eon, and in the meantime better quarters at Marble Creek were hurriedly established. Owing to the extremely difficult country she had to be carried every foot of the nine miles on a stretcher. A route has been chosen which avoids summit crossings, and it is thought Mrs. Stone is strong enough to withstand the hardship of the journey. Later the body of Dr. Stone was found at the bottom of a deep crevice, a very difficult position for recovery.
