Falling in Love.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

Of all the many strange and wonderful things in the world that we have ceased to realize are strange a n a wonderful just because they happen every day. I think there is no one more in- c o m p r e h e n s i b l e and more fascinatingly mys- terious than the fact that a certain man falls in love with a certain woman (or vice versa) and cannot be happy, or thinks he can't with any other person in the world.

We see this every day and we accept it as inevitable because it is familiar. But take some particular case of two engaged people and ask yourself why either should feel that the sun- shine would be blotted out of his life if he or she couldn't have that per- fectly nice but perfectly ordinary per- son for a mate, and you will perhaps get my angle on this.

What Difference Did It Make. The circumstance which brought this particularly before my mind was meeting a newly engaged couple. The man had wanted the girl for years and had finally ousted his rival. And unlike most men, he wanted the world to know the odds he had, been up against. He told us all about it, how he had made up his mind to marry her in spite of the other's headstart, and how he had been his whole existence for two years to the task of getting her.

And all the time he talked I just couldn't help wondering—but why did it make such a difference to him, why couldn't he have taken someone else? DIVORCE.

The divorce is a simple and painless operation with alimony attachment. It has become one of the most flourish- ing of American industries, and can be produced at slight expense by showing a few contusions and fervent love letters.

The principal object of divorce is to separate husband from wife, or vice versa. Whenever the vice versa is clearly proven, the plaintiff is al- lowed to resume her maiden name and retain all of the dining-room fur- niture.

When a woman has married a plain drunk disguised as a pillar of the church, she is given a divorce which is cordially received by the commu- nity, but the second time she is wooed she has both eyes peeled for the little clove. A divorcee who has just shak- en off a six day soak is not to be de- ceived by the furtive coffee bean or the peppermint lozenge.

tone. It is not necessary to specify the particular brand of incompatibil- ity, which may range anywhere from refusing to make the beds to attack- ing the plaintiff with a pitchfork. If it were not for the little bob-tailed word, incompatibility, thousands of couples who now refuse to speak to each other would be living together and carrying concealed weapons, in- stead of having been dissolved by mutual consent.

Alimony is a method of juggling the law so as to write a monthly check out of the defendant, who probably was not at fault anywhere except in marrying two or three other women without informing his first wife. The laws of this country are very unjust, as can be seen by the fact that women are never required to pay alimony. This causes contempt for law and also causes many a detached husband to go through bankruptcy and remove to South America, where sound, flat-foot- ed wives are a drug on the market.

Cruel and inhuman treatment is a frequent cause of divorce, and is re- sorted to successfully by cowed hus- bands whose stomachs have been put on the retired list by inhuman cook- ing. The courts have ruled, to their credit, that any husband who can bring into court an attack of chronic dyspepsia will be freed and no ques- tions asked, which teaches us to be more patient with our lawmakers.

Fads and Fashions.

Soft subdued shades are most liked for suits as the summer goes on. Black and white plaid is the pro- per thing for little girls' coats and hats.

When hats have upturned brims they are frequently trimmed under- neath.

Draperies of fine metal lace appear over clinging crepe de chine robes. Spotted foulard frocks are naturally finished with lingerie and lace collars.

A smart little touch of strong color is used with sports costumes of all white.

Finish the edge of the collar with a velvet cord and make large tassels of the same to weight the corners of the collar in front.

The plaintiff is allowed to resume her maiden name and retain all of the dining room furniture.

Some people never secure a divorce but once, and could not be dragged up to the altar with a hemp rope, while others take one at every March term of the district court. In order to secure a good, elastic divorce these days all that is necessary is to en- gage a fluent attorney and plead in- compatibility in a loud and aggrieved

The Gas Range!

The Gas Range means comfort for the housewife; shorter kitchen hours for her, and a cleaner kitchen. It is a great mistake to think that cooking with gas is expensive.

Whenever a woman becomes used to gas for cooking, thoughts of a coal or wood stove fill her with gloom. A Gas Range is so much easier to operate, so efficient for all kinds of cook- ing, and so much cleaner, that the idea of going back to the old style methods is decidedly unpleasant. Yet in winter many housewives think they must use a coal or wood stove, be- cause there is no other way of heat- ing the kitchen. THERE IS ANOTH- ER WAY AND IT IS FAR BETTER THAN THE OLD. THE GERMAN SOLDIER.

I'd hate to be a German, and fight for Kaiser Bill, unable to deter- mine why I went forth to kill. The Frenchman and the Briton have causes fine and high, and when a foe they've smit- ten, they know the reason why. The Russian and the Roman, the Bel- gian and the Serb, shoot up the arm- ored foeman autocracy to curb. For freedom men are fighting on Europe's blood drenched lands; the German, at this writing, for ancient error stands. The Kaiser says, "Go slaughter, go butcher, till you die, make men's blood run like water, and do not ask me why." Go, vassals, serfs, and visit my wrath on all my foes; I am the great What-is-it, and what I tell you goes. Don't ask me questions silly, don't prate of wrong or right; I'm the appointed Willie, who bids you go and fight. I am the sun in heaven, I am the moon and stars; to me alone is given the heart and front of Mars. And when I bid you wallow in blood up to your ears, my dictum you must follow! Hoeh, Deutschland und zwei biere! And so, like driven cattle, the Germans go to war, and wonder, as they battle, what they are bleeding for.
