Nerves So Bad That She Would Sit and Cry

Mrs. Mary Hocking, Madoc, Ont., writes—
"Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done me a wonderful lot of good. I suffered from general weakness and was so run down and my heart and nerves were in such bad shape that I would sit down and cry and not know what I was crying about. I also used to have weak spells. Thanks to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, however, I am real well now. I shall always keep a box of the Nerve Food in the house, and recommend them to my friends; they are a wonderful medicine."
(Mr. J. W. Vince, Druggist, of Madoc, Ont., says: "I have sold Mrs. Hocking your Nerve Food, and the medicine has done her much good.")

Inadequate School Accommodation.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—In this evening's issue of your paper I see Mr. P. G. Butler announces that he had to refuse thirty-two more children admittance to the educational institution of which he is principal. That statement seems to infer that it is not his first refusal for this school year. I think it would be interesting public matter if we could get a correct statement from every principal of every educational institution in this community regarding refusals to admittance, and also to overcrowding, which is a detriment and great injustice to every teacher and every child of the classroom overcrowded.
Mr. Butler has the courage to give the public some facts regarding conditions prevailing under his notice. Are all principals free to do the same? If they are, as I have afore said, it would be interesting public matter to break the monotony of the dull winter evenings. We are still waiting for a report from the Rotary Club re the knowledge that has been gathered by them from the Survey they made of the city re all the boys of the city. They may not have intended to publish it, but I do not think it would be too much to ask of them to do so, yet I do not expect that if the report is made public that we will get "swelled heads" over it, as it is very evident that conditions which are prevailing below a certain level and which affects both sexes alike, if it ever got the sunlight of publicity would give us as a community anything to boast of.

It is not because that some of our boys are "placed" that we should ignore those who are not, but that seems to be the prevailing sentiment of the average citizen is selfishly inclined and where selfishness exists so also does "dry rot." I venture to say that none of those who have been refused admittance to educational institutions this school year are the offspring of those who compose the various school boards or either of those who blocked the way to general school improvements when the issue was a live one something over two years ago. When the right value of education from a national point of view is considered it will become a public issue, and the various denominations will have no control over it. Until then we will have to dig down deeper and deeper and get very little for our money. I mean, all would have to pay the price as seems now do not have to pay at all, but get all the cream, therefore they do not have to bear the rub. I hope others who are not encased in a shell of indifference will exert their influence with Mr. Butler and strive towards an improvement of the conditions which are prevailing in educational matters in this country and particularly in this city.

Respectfully yours,
GEO. H. TUCKER.

A CHRISTMAS WISH.
I wish that I were Santa Claus. I'd come around to you,
And with my pack upon my back I'd find your chimney fire,
And with a smile upon my face I'd stand behind your bed
And maybe laugh to hear you snore, unmindful of my tread;
Then when I'd found the sock you wear I'd work my magic there,
Supplanting with some joyous thing your every bit of care.

I wouldn't give you neckties gay or fancies made of gold,
I wouldn't give you anything which can be bought and sold,
I'd leave the glass tobacco jars and cash trays all behind,
And give you strength for every task; I'd give you peace of mind.
No trining thing of brass or plate to mark my love I'd give,
But I would leave the richer joys to cheer you while you live.

I'd make you glad to walk the street and glad to greet the day;
I'd grief lies heavy on your heart I'd lift it all away
I'd touch your eyes with golden faith so you would wake to see
The beauty of your bitter loss and why it had to be.
And running over all the joys which I have had from you,
You'd wake on Christmas morn to find your fondest dreams come true.

The applicant for the position of cook explained to the lady why she had left her last place:
"To tell the truth, mum, I just couldn't stand the way the master and the mistress was always quarrelling."
"That must have been very unpleasant," the lady agreed.
"Yes, mum," the cook declared, "they was at it all the time. When it wasn't me an' him, it was me an' her."

Just Right.

"I want a tie for my fiance," she said to the assistant in the men's wear department of the big stores.
"Something suitable to his taste; he's a keen footballer, you know."
"Why not get a tie in his club colours?"
"I forget what they are. But I know what he'd like," she exclaimed joyfully. "Show me some cup-ties, please."
