"Of course, there's no danger; and people down the cellar, as you call that fellow's as safely done for as if his throat was slit from ear to ear this minute. When are we to settle him, mother?"

"I'll go up to his door and listen first," said the woman, rising, "and try to find out whether he's asleep, or only shamming. I'll be back in a minute."

"He'll soon sleep sound enough I'll warrant him," said the other young man, stirring up the fire, with a laugh.

A that moment the young stranger felt a hand, icy cold, grasp his wrist from behind, with a grip of iron; and, and, with a half-repressed ejaculation, he turned around to see who had caught him.

CHAPTER III,

"Hush!" said a terrified voice, "don't make a noise-don't speak!

I was the voice of the child, Orrie. The young man glanced in wonder to the place where he had seen her last, but it was empty now.

"Come upstairs, quick! Oh, hurry, hurry!" exclaimed the child, in an agonized whisper, as her little hand ciinched his wrist for a moment, with almost supernatural strength, and then she flitted lightly and noiselessly is a shadew up the stairs.

There was no time to lose. The woman, who had stood listening while they spoke, now started to cross the room, and the stranger, taking two or three steps at a time, prang lightly up the stairs and encred his chamber. . 1

WOMEN SHOULD WEAR TO CHURCH

PARIS-(A.P.)-The length of the sleeves of a woman's dress which is suitable wear for the observance of church services has been laid down by the Bishop of Clermont-Ferrand in a notice which he has asked the priests to bring before their flocks. Wearers of dresses wanting in modesty, the circular states-with the explanation that decency forbids low-cut necks and sleeves that do not reach the elbow-should be asked to eave the church, and if they present themselves thus attired at the Holy Communion, the priest should pass them by. Their own priest later should give them "a paternal warning" on the subject.
