The Rogers Inquest. The inquest on the body of the late Michael Rogers began at Stephenson's undertaking rooms this morning, and will be continued at the Police Court at 7:30 this evening. Coroner Flock was in charge and the following men constituted the jury: Andrew W. Hamilton (foreman), Richard Mountjoy, Alf Padfield, Wm. H. Davis, Donald Ferguson, Brice Sainsbury, John D. O'Neil, James E. Patmore, Wm. Wyatt, Frederick Keene, Thos. Sparks, John Darch, C. H. Peacock, Arch Black. Wm. John Wingett, a tailor, recognized the body and stated that he had seen Rogers on Dundas street on Friday last. He was apparently sober, but had a peculiar look in his eyes. Other witnesses will be examined to-night. It is said that Rogers had tried without success to gain admission to the Aged Men's Home. Also that he had expressed the intention of drowning himself a few days previous to his being found on the market. A son-inlaw named Thomas N. Fordyce, of Detroit, was present, but left for home at noon. The body was interred at the Catholic Cemetery this afternoon by the Tailors' Union, of

YOUTHFUL TRAMPS

From Detroit-No Money for Traveling -A Row Through Drink-Police Court Notes.

Three precocious youngsters, from 12 to If years of age, have started on the rough road of trampdom pretty early. They are Wm. Johnston, Wm. Clark and Wm. Mc-Leod, and they claim Detroit as their home. The three Willies were found in an empty house on King street last night, snugly snoring. Their sleeping quarters, were transferred to the police cells with the help of Constable Ralph, and this morning they told the police magistrate they were bound for Aylmer, where McLeod had an uncle. They had not a cent of money and evidently intended to beat their way in true tramp fashion. McLeed. the smallest and brightest, talked so confidently that the court doubted his assertion that he had never been arrested before. He knew too much for an innocent. The magistrate ordered they be escorted to the corperation limits, which was done. A letter was found in McLeod's pockets. It was from a relative who urged the lad to return to a good home. The three were well dressed and had apparently been led astray by dime novels.
