SEVEN PERISH IN WINNIPEG FIRE

Section of Building Blown Out During Conflagration In a Warehouse.

THE WORK OF A FIREBUG

Two of the Firemen and Five Spectators Were Buried in the Ruins

The Killed.
E. MOLYNEUX, fireman.
CHARLES McPHERSON, fireman.
WALTER ROWLEY, teamster.
LEO J. BLUETTE, spectator.
CLARENCE CHAPMAN, aged 12.
CLARENCE WINKER, employee of C. P. R.
J. CONNOLLY, C. P. R. employee.

Winnipeg, March 11.—Seven persons are dead, one or more seriously fatally injured, and a number suffered more or less serious injuries as the result of an explosion which followed an outbreak of fire in the rear of the Bradford-Wright Company, limited, wholesale cash and door factory, 776 Main street, shortly after ten o'clock Saturday night.

Captain Dewitt and six of his men of fire hall No. 3 were training hose on the back of the building where the fire, supposed to be the work of an incendiary, had started in a lean-to annex, when without warning the back wall and the great doors opening on a spur track were blown out, the little party going down in wreck and ruin which caught and overwhelmed several spectators and passers-by. "I was standing in the park, directing operations," said Captain Dewitt, "and had a miraculous escape. McPheron and Molyneux being killed at my feet, while not a man else of my squad escaped uninjured. Tons of brick and doors fell around us. The men were caught without a chance to escape."

Passerby Caught.
McPheron, whose father lives in Edinburgh, Scotland, was aged 29, and had been three years in the department. Molyneux, who had but recently joined, was aged 24, and a native of Lisnakeilly, County Kerry, Ireland. Of the other fatalities, Bluet, aged 28, of Napanee, Ont., and engaged to a Winnipeg girl, was passing when caught by the explosion. Rowley was assisting the firemen. Winker, aged 21, was a son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Winker, of 577 Strathcona street, this city, having been born in North Dakota, and for three years past had been in the employ of the Canadian Pacific Railway dining car department, recently being promoted to the secretaryship of the head of the department. Standing on the platform on top of the building, he was struck by a falling wire on top of a subway. A boy, Clarence Chapman, whose parents live at 299 Patrick street, was found this afternoon after the smoke had cleared away, dead, among the ruins.

A big crowd gathered when the alarm went in, but for the most part massed about the entrance to the subway in front of the building, which is situated between the International Harvester Company's building on the south on corner of Main and Sutherland, and the Stuard Machinery Company.

Smoke was issuing from the lean-to at the back, but until the explosion came, the firemen were unable to have the situation under control.

For a time it was a question whether the adjoining buildings could be saved, but the stout firewalls proved

BOURASSA SLAMS QUEBEC MINISTERS

A Great Nationalist Mass Meeting Hisses Monk and Pelletier.

SAYS RACE BETRAYED

In Impassioned Address Declares the French-Canadian Must Fight For Separate Schools All Over.

Montreal, March 10.—The inalienable rights of minorities in all parts of Canada to have separate schools, was the message sent forth in the form of a resolution, unanimously adopted at a mass meeting of French-Canadians held last night at the Monument National.

Although the opening speakers declared that the gathering was not to be one of protest, and that there were to be no tirades against ministers or members of the House, who have as yet not seen fit to fall out with the Government over its views in the matter of the Keewatin bill, Henri Bourassa, the chief orator of the evening, took strong exception to the attitude of the Hon. Messrs. Monk, Pelletier and Nantel, in regard to the question at issue.

There was a huge crowd present, and the attacks upon the Government, "which was about to betray the rights of the French-Canadian minority," caused a constant uproar of applause. The mention of the name Monk, Pelletier or Nantel brought storms of hooting, until finally Mr. Bourassa arose and stated that it would be well to withhold such violence against the bill had passed its third reading, and the final attitude of the ministers in question had been more fully debated and explained.

Mr. Armand Lavergne also spoke. The meeting was typical of the Nationalist cult. Scores and scores of priests in their robes of office, hundreds of pupils from the religious schools, the students of Laval and extreme Ultramontane element from all over the province packed the huge building to the very doors. At no time in the history of the Nationalist movement was the alliance between Mr. Bourassa and the Catholic Church so manifest as at Saturday's meeting. The church dignitaries came out openly to hear and approve of their mouthpieces in the slave in the separate schools in Keewatin.

The address of Mr. Bourassa was typical of the Nationalist leader. For three hours he gave vent to sneers, to bitter denunciations, and appeals to racial and religious prejudice, until at last the huge audience came under the spell of his eloquence and thundered forth their approval of his sentiments.

Monk Hissed.
In his speech he stated that he had never insulted Laurier. This statement caused even the partisan audience to gasp, but Mr. Bourassa continued as unconcerned as if he had made a commonplace remark regarding the weather. His mention of Mr. Monk brought forth hisses. "Stop!" cried the speaker. "Wait until next week before you hiss," intimating that there might shortly be a change of front by the Minister of Public Works. Mr. Pelletier, the postmaster-general, came in for the most of Mr. Bourassa's sneers. Mr. Pelletier owed his election to Mr. Bourassa and Mr. Lavergne, and his subsequent elevation of cabinet rank came as a result of their solicitation. That he had seen fit to oppose their wishes now was sufficient to place him among the enemies of the Catholic Church and the French race. Mr. Pelletier has mixed the Manitoba and Keewatin school questions. "They should not be mixed, but kept separate. He is the only politician who has mixed these two questions, and his action in so doing was evidently done for a purpose."

French Language and Rights.
Even in his denunciation of Pelletier and Monk he was far less violent than when he appealed to the French race to preserve their language and religion and to fight for their rights. "What is the use of being faithful for 150 years to the British flag," he asked, "if they are to be kicked and jumped upon at their pleasure simply because we are weak and in the minority? If this law is passed by the Federal Government the French-Canadians may well ask themselves that question."

In the course of his address Mr. Bourassa went over the whole history of separate schools in Canada, and the arguments advanced for the protection of the rights of the minorities. He quoted extensively from acts and speeches to prove that the Government had broken its promise against the privileges granted to the minorities in the Northwest 37 years ago. To separate the school question from the Hudson Bay question is wrong. "It is a forgery of historical facts, and those who vote to separate them are guilty of cowardice. And I want to warn you," said he, "that your rights are not safe with the Manitoba Government. If the Federal Government passes this act there is no going back when we are in the majority in Manitoba will turn a deaf ear to all the entreaties of the minority, a minority who have no money and no influence. It is for us to fight their battles. The present Government is breaking the word of honor given by Blake and Brown, by Mackenzie and Macdonald, and is trampling on the rights given to the minority. Following the three-hour harangue of Mr. Bourassa, Mr. C. H. Cahan gave an equally fiery address. His speech was just as full of sedition and racial appeals as that of his fellow-Nationalist.

The last speech was given by Armand Lavergne, but as it was nearly midnight he only made a few remarks along the lines that the question must be settled now, and settled right.

BERLIN A CITY

Is Making Application For a Charter and Will Separate From County.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Berlin, March 11.—The county and town councils have held three meetings to arrange for the terms of Berlin's separation from Waterloo County, and as yet have not arrived at an agreement. The negotiations are being keenly conducted, and it is possible that the question will go to arbitration. The town's share of the administration of the House of Refuge is being disputed, but it is expected that an agreement will be reached next Friday, following which Berlin will make application for a city charter.

GIRL FLYER KILLED.

Paris, March 10.—Suzanne Bernard, a 19-year-old girl, who was qualifying at Etampes today in a third test for an air pilot's license, fell with her biplane a distance of sixty yards and was horribly crushed. She died in ten minutes afterwards.

The young woman had gone through the first two tests in the most successful manner. She showed such impetuosity in these tests that her companions urged her to be more prudent and to always make the turns to the left. She disregarded this advice and in addition to steering carelessly made the turn to the right.

The machine turned turtle and fell to the ground like a stone.

She took up aviation last September.

assa tried to defend bilingual schools in Ontario, only to appeal again to the passions and prejudices of his hearers. "The English sneer at us, but we are honest if we are poor. We do not steal the bread from our neighbors as they do. But," added Mr. Bourassa in conclusion, "we cannot expect the English to fight our battles and defend our rights. It is up to us to start a campaign and wage such a war that no person shall dare to deny us our rights."

Mr. C. H. Cahan.

Laurier Blamed.

Somewhat of a sensation was caused by Mr. C. H. Cahan, who declared that if the rights of the minority were about to be violated the French-Canadians had only themselves to blame. He was referring to the Greenway precedent, had inserted the thin edge of the wedge, yet they had ever since continued to give him magnificent support at the polls.

His left arm was severed and his left leg so badly crushed that he did not survive the operation at the Hotel Dieu, where he was removed immediately after the accident. OTTAWA WOMEN SEEK FAIRER TREATMENT

Married Women Who Are Ratepayers Want to Vote On Municipal Affairs.

Ottawa, March 9.—It appears to be the feeling of members of the Ottawa local council that married women, who are ratepayers, are not being treated fairly by the city.

Myra F. Cox, president of the Equal Suffrage Association, and Florence H. Edgar, have written Mayor Hopewell on their behalf. They state "that the city of Ottawa has forwarded to the Legislature a resolution in favor of removing the disqualification resting on the married women of Ontario regarding the exercise of the municipal franchise in respect of their own property or income during the lifetime of their husbands, a franchise which they are entitled to exercise before marriage and after they become widows."

The ladies claim there is a feeling in Ottawa that this disqualification is unfair to women, and express the hope that the Ottawa city council will take the same course the Toronto city council has taken. The local association asks them to send a resolution to the Legislature similar to the one the Toronto city council has sent that body.
