

Winding Up This Year's Business and Planning for the Next

THE financial flurry which has been disturbing the country has given food for thought, but not a source of doubt. The shrinkage in values has chiefly affected the fortunes of the rich. We have the most abundant faith in the future, the immediate future of this great province of ours, and particularly the Island and Capital City, and can see no cloud in the sky which means more than a passing shower. Now is the time for Victorians to push forward, as the Pacific Coast is looked on with envious eyes by Eastern people. We shall push the Spencer Policy for all it is worth and use every possible effort in giving values which will make this coming year a banner one.
