The Wichits " Poker Craze." The Wichita' Fosce Crass

From the Memphis Appeal.

Which I say for a heathen Injun,
Who hasn't civilized ways,
That Yellow Dog of the Wichitas
Was a regular draw-poker "craze."
When we camped on the Canadiat,
Down low on the Seuthern Fork,
Missouri Dan had a greasy d ck,
And we settled down to the work.

Dave deait the papers to Baltimore
(Which Hal was also his name),
Hal "antied," Yellow Dog "stayed in,"
As likewise I did the same:
Then Dan "passed cut," Hal "raised the blind,
And "throwed to the centre" to "draw,"
And Yellow Dog stood the raise of Hal,
which the same I also saw.

I drawed two cards and Hal drawed onc,
And Yellow Dog he drawed three,
And I knowed that Hal had "fil'ed his haul".
By the wink he wunk at me.
Then the fun began and the Injun "bucked,"
And I saw Missouri laugh;
He knowed, whoever won the "pot,"
That we all was "half and half."

When all the "rocks" which the party had Had been put up on the board, And all the fish's about the camp, And even the stock we rode, I called for a "sight," throwed down my hat When, as sure as I'm a ive, Battimore Hal he hilt four ones, Whist the Yeliow Dog he hilt five!

Stranger, of course, we was surprised,
But the rules of the game declare
That "whenever the Injun cheats the white
He must 'climb the go'den stair."
And there he was a ~kcked Injun,
For he tried to "raise a gale" By "ropin" us innocent cowb ys; So we "tuck him off the trail."

Way down on the South Canadian,
Where the water wildly sweeps,
Where the orier sighs to the sage bush,
The Wichita Yellow Dog sleeps.
Which is why I says of the Injun,
Who hasn't civilized ways,
Fur to tackle a cowboy at poker
He must have a "poker graze."
