

How many schools are there in this Mission?

Name the lady teachers from Canada in Trinidad?

How many children attend these schools?

What are you doing to help them?

THE INDIANS IN THE NORTH WEST.

Mr. McKay, one of the Missionaries, writes as follows: "On the day following our communion, we camped at noon near a small lake, and, hearing voices down near the water's edge, we came to one who was saying to those about him:

"I am an old man. I sometimes speak to our young men about God. They are willing to listen but I know so little about Him. I want to know more. All I know is the way He has led me. How often would I have been slain in the battles, were it not that God put his arm about me!" Then turning to Mr. McKay, he said, 'You know much about God for you have his book. And I come to you to be instructed.'

"This poor Indian is still a pagan; but he is spoken of by the rest of his band as a good man and as one that speaks to God.

"Another man brought his children to our school last winter. He said, 'They are still pagans; but if they wish to become Christians, I shall put nothing in the way. If the Christian religion has more light in it than my religion then I shall be a Christian. The gods we worship do not seem to care for us. They do not pity our poor; they do not clothe our naked; they seem to be more helpless than we are ourselves.'"

The poor people long for light. Let us haste to tell them of Jesus who is the light of the world.

LADY DUFFERIN.

Some of the older children remember Lord Dufferin who was Governor-General of Canada a few years ago. He is now Viceroy of India, ruler of more than two hundred millions of people, or nearly four times the population of the United States.

What do you think Lady Dufferin does? Live like a queen, give grand parties and such things? She spends her life in something better. Her heart was touched by the condition of millions of women in India, shut up in their zenanas, ignorant of God, of holiness, of happiness and heaven, suffering when sick because no physician was allowed to visit them and give them medicine, and she is doing what she can to make their lot happier and better. She is seeking to have them educated both in the things that belong to this life and the next. She does honor to her high position by favoring and helping the missionaries in their work.

WON'T.

"I will not" said a little boy, stoutly, as I passed along. His tone struck me.

"What won't you do?" I stopped and asked.

"That boy wants me to 'make believe' something to my mother, and I won't!" he said, in the same stout tone.

The little boy is on the right road. That is just one of the places to say "won't." I hope he will stick to it.

"Won't" is not a pretty word for children, but it is the right one when asked to deceive.

OUR HYMN.

"I am a little one,
But Jesus knows me;
My little feet must run
Where Jesus shows me.

I have a little heart,
But it keeps sinning;
Jesus must help me start
From the beginning.

My little tongue must raise
Jesus' high glory,
So through my little days
I'll tell my story."

"Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful."
