

a difficulty in deciding, judging from the external appearance, which is the Minister of Christ. For the latter, according to our old-fashioned notion, should ever be distinguished by a meek countenance and an entire absence of conformity to the foppery of the world."

BERMUDA.—It is painful to hear that the yellow fever has been making rapid and fearful progress since former accounts. A requisition has been sent on for additional medical aid, and we understand that several of the Army and Navy Surgeons have proceeded thither in H. M. Steamer Argus.

Farther offerings thankfully received by J. C. COCHRAN, Miss'y.

We have received a kind and encouraging letter from a talented brother clergyman in England, an Alumnus of King's College. He says "I thank you for the regular transmission of your paper, which, without any flattery I say it, gives me more information upon British and Foreign affairs, than any English paper I have access to." I find in it just such information as it becomes a Christian to receive and enjoy. I wish you had a more extensive circulation, and would help you to gain it if I was in a position so to do.

He directs us to a quarter from which to receive two years' subscription to the C. T.]

There is little probability that I shall ever see Nova Scotia again—but there is a certainty that I shall never forget it, nor cease to take an interest in its affairs, nor fail to welcome yourself or any other servant of God from thence, who will favour me with an opportunity of showing him hospitality."

TO CORRESPONDENTS.—A Subscriber in New Brunswick writes to complain that the account of the Consecration of the Cathedral, as published in the two last numbers of this paper is incorrect. We regret it, if such is the case, but are not answerable for the errors.

He states that the allusion to a "confusion in the procession was an exaggeration—that the interior was crowded there was not standing room for one more person—that the Sentence of Consecration was not long," as stated in the account, but short—and only "emanated from the Bishop, as all such sentences do—and that it only referred to an Imperial Grant—(not act) because the land, being Crown land, was given to the Bishop by Letters Patent." In reference to the organ too, some mistakes are mentioned—as are obvious—one about "T. in alto"—and instead of 27 notes on the key board, there are 58.
