

"Up the street, up the street,
Up the street Thursday night,
All in the midst of the Sems.
In the bright moonlight !
Forward, we happy three.
Charge for the Sem we may,
All in the midst of the Sems,
Isn't this gay?"

"Fair ones to right of us,
Fair ones to left of us,
Fair ones in front of us,
Smile then and wonder.
No teacher from behind
Sees us; is she not kind ?
No one our joke will find,
There's been no blunder."

After :—

But we were well repaid,
My, the wild tracks we made.
Wont students wonder !
Honor the snow Sems threw,
As : t our ears it flew
And struck, C thunder!"

— Ninety-six is on the qui vive to see what success will attend the efforts of their member from the West to secure the position of assistant postmaster.

— No work to do in this College, eh? Going to Chicago, are you? Perhaps it would be well to see what the full course here is like before taking any rash steps. You know it would be harder to leave this place than you may have suspected. The process of becoming wadded to a given course, may be very difficult to resist, even for the handsome young man from the Freshman Class."

— Junior Class in Bible. Prof.--" You know we hear of miracles wrought in Upper Canada, but of course we do not believe them " H. A. M.—"Pink Pills?"

— "Well, if you are not going to do it I'll try it myself," said C—d: and suiting the action to the word, he suddenly sat down on the sidewalk,—and how (h)ard M——t ran !

— " 'The way of the transgressor is hard ' and cold," said the Freshman as he slid down the Seminary steps on the night of the last recital.

— It is certainly refreshing to be informed that Adam was born in 45 B. C., and that John wrote the first verse in the Bible.

— The debate was good. But the best of earthly things are not perfect. There are spots on the sun and spots also on the debate in the form of occasional mispronunciations, examples of which we venture to point out. The spelling in the following sentences will be recognized as corresponding to the pronunciation employed during the recitation of the 6th inst. :—

"The indorcements held out to emigrants by the United States are abzorbingly greater than those offered by Canada."
