

SCRAP BOOK.

A French translator is said to have translated the poet's exclamation, "Hail, horrors! hail!" into "How do you do, horrors! How do you do!" This is no worse than the German's translation of Shakespeare's "All hail, Macbeth" into "Alle Hail, Macbeth!"

George III. once said to Sir J. Irwin a famous bon vivant, "They tell me Sir John, you love a glass of wine." "Those, sir, who have so reported me to your Majesty," answered he, bowing profoundly, "do me a great injustice, they should have said—a bottle."

Chesterfield gazing at a brilliant circle of ladies at a rout in France, was accosted by Voltaire thus:—"My lord, I know you are a judge; which are the most beautiful English or French ladies?" His lordship replied, "I am no connoisseur in paintings."

An observant foreigner said that when a great man dies in the United States, the first thing done is to propose a fine statue in his honor; next, to raise a part of the necessary money; next, to forget to order any statue, and last to wonder what became of the money.

A printer, having been jilted by his sweetheart, tried to commit suicide. The "devil" found him out and took him to the sanctuary where the editor was writing duns to delinquent subscribers. The picture of despair presented by the editor, reconciled the printer to his fate. He began to consider himself as comparatively happy.

A boy from the country was recently taken into a gentleman's family. One afternoon, just before dark, after having been called up to the drawing-room, he came down into the kitchen laughing immoderately. "What's the matter?" cried the cook. "Why, hang it," said he, "there are twelve of them up there who couldn't light the gas, and they had to ring for me to do it!"

Judge Jeffreys, when at the Bar, was a fierce, bullying, and brow beating counsel. One day he addressed a witness thus:—"You, fellow, in a leather doublet, pray what do you get for swearing?" The man looking at him with a broad grin replied, "If you had no more for lying than I have for swearing, you would wear a leather doublet as well as I."

A down town barkeeper has invented a patent free-lunch counter. It is arranged so that when the wandering bum has eaten his six pieces of cheese, three crackers, two pickles, a concealed clock gives warning. If this is disregarded, and he attacks the baked beans, a giant fist descends from the ceiling and "bonnets" him, while a gigantic foot springs from the wall and kicks him into the street.

A good story is told of a dispute entered into by a Scotsman and an Englishman, as to which of their respective countries had produced the most eminent men. Every name was claimed by the Scotsman as that of a man who had been born north of the Tweed, till finally the Englishman said, "Surely you won't claim Shakespeare as a Scotsman?" "Weel replied the canny Scot, "if Shakespeare wasna a Scotsman, he was clever enough to be one."

Dr. Abernethy was very much annoyed by an old lady who was always sure to accost him in the street for the purpose of telling over her ailments. Once she met him when he was in a great hurry. "Ah I see you are quite feeble," said the doctor, "Shut your eyes and show me your tongue." She obeyed, and the doctor, moving off, left her standing there for some time in this ridiculous position, to the infinite amusement of all who witnessed the funny scene.

The Rev. Mr. Thom, of Govan, riding home from Paisley on a particular occasion, came up with two gentlemen, heritors of his parish, who had lately been made justices of the peace. The seeing him well mounted as usual, were determined to pass a joke on him, and accosted him thus: "Well, Mr. Thom; you are very unlike your master, for he was content to ride on an ass." Says Mr. Thom, "there is no such beast to be got now-a-days." "Aye, how's that?" said they. "Because," replied Mr. Thom, "they now make them all justices of the peace."

A negro town-crier in Palmyra, La., was sent out to ring his bell and shout, "Col. Anderson will speak at the town hall to-night on the greenback and Peter Cooper question." He made the announcement correctly several times, and then got it changed to, "Oh, yes! oh, yes! Col. Cooperback will speak on the Green Peter question!" When last heard he was yelling, "Whoop-a-la! Green-peter will speak on the Coop question this evening!"
