last to be forever deprives of that battle cry by the final settlement of the question. He could hot help thinking that it would be better objection to an unmistakeable test of the opinion if this question had been treated with regard to the different large religious bodies, in a different spirit. It might be that some denominations, where the control of the country on this question. In conclusion, as I do not wish to occupy the time of this House on this occasion, I would add but one maintaining, like the English dissenters, the voluntary principle, would be willing to give up this question should be referred to the country, voluntary principle, would be willing to give up their proportion of the Reserves or apply it to some other purposes, but that was no reason why I consider it desirable that this question should be referred to the country, on the abstract question of secularization or no secularization. that those who were desirious of having their that those who were desirious of having their proportion continued to be applied for the maintenance of religion should be allowed to do so. Cantlemen on all sides admitted that there proportion continued to be applied for the main-Gentlemen on all sides admitted that there were rights in these Reserves, else why should to the secularization of the Reserves. It will the secularization be postponed until years had passed by, and the present incumbents had passed away. Could rights exist where there were no rights? And if there were no rights, the secularization of the Reserves. It will be recollected by some hon, members in this be recollected by some hon. The following the recollected by some hon. The parish was held in the city of Toronto. That were no rights? And if there were no rights, on what ground were the present incumbents to be protected? It seemed strange that gentlemen from Lower Canada, belonging to the Roman Catholic religion, and claiming that the State ought to maintain the Church and provide for the religious advantion of the records. That that convocation a unanimous expression of opinion unfavourable to secularization was carried. I next take the Roman Catholic Church, numbering 169,000 members. Although no similar expression of opinion was had from that church it is well known that the church is for the religious education of the people, should church, it is well known that the church is go for the destruction of the reserves, and not see that the very same reasons which applied to the maintenance of their church, applied to the maintenance of their church, applied The Wesleyan Methodists have not yet given equally to the rights of other churches in these expression to their views; but they are Reserves. He would battle manfully and to the likely to accord with those mentioned. Here last moment against the secularization of the Reserves, but when the question was once settled, he for one wished it to be finally settled, and he would never re-open it. He warned the government, however, of the difficulty they would have to encounter, in the settlement of this question. It was, he believed, the rock on which they would split. What sort of measure were they going to offer the country? If the bill of the late government was not to be adopted here to be a solution of the late government was not to be adopted here. adopted, how were the reserves to be disposed not be misunderstood. For educational purposes? Why the Roman Catholics of Upper Canada-140,000 of question; I am most anxious that the question the people of that section of the province—had be settled during the present Session; and I already put forth, in anticipation of the secu- am satisfied that the opinion of the country can larization of the Reserves, a claim that a portion be had in a satisfactory manner before the close of these Reserves should be devoted to the of the present Session, as from all appearances seperate education of their youth. Would the Upper Canada liberals consent to that? That question of separate schools would give rise to whatever the result may be. an agitation compared to which the agitation of the past had been as nothing. (Hear, Hear.) Mr. Cameron then warned Lower Canada members that the first attack on the Roman Catholic Church—an attack already forshadowed in the programme of the Rouge party—would be on the subject of tithes—that was the outwork which the opponents of state religious endow-ments would first asail, in order to get at the interior of the fortress. What he (Mr. C.) contended for to-day the Lower Canada Reformers might, under altered circumstances and changed occasions, contend for to-morrow, and then they would perhaps feel that it would have been wiser and better for them to have allied them-selves earlier with those who felt as he (Mr. C.) did upon this question. Mr. Cameron then referred to the question of the Legislative Council were elective, the Governor must also of the iron-work, which, unless it be decorated be elective; and declared that upon that question he should strenuously oppose the administration. He announced that it was his intention at the proper time to bring forward some and the proper time to bring forward some all intimation of the area betwixt them and the amendment or measure that would submit these outer wall. Then, the distribution of light and two questions directly to the people, including shade—or, to speak more exactly, of glare and the new voters under the franchise act whom gloom—may offer difficulties of detail which it he estimated at 50,000 in Upper Canada, in order that they might be decided by them distinctly, without being mixed up by personal or party considerations. He believed that if that were done, the result would be widely different from what some gentlemen expected. He had only turther to say that in regard to the position in which the Universe Caradian members of partitions. To eyes accustomed to the Crystal tion in which the Upper Canadian members of the administration were placed, they would receive the support, in all measures which were central hall of the Parisian building will seem worthy of support, of those who had heretofore acted with them. Various notices had been given by gentlemen on the opposition benches of extensions to the elective principle to which he could not assent, and upon these questions he could not doubt, although no anouncement had been made on the subject, but he would be found voting side by side with the ministry. That the policy of the late government was adopted by the present government in tact, and that all the measures contended for by the reformers would be carried out by the present coalition government. In the absence of explanations from the gallant knight, I am bound to consider the statements of the hon. member correct. But I would state to this House that no union predicated on the secularization will get a liberal support from the conservatives of Upper Canada, and I am surprised to find hon. gentlemen on this side of the house who have been contending for years in opposition to the gallant knight and his friends, and trying by their eloquence to convince them that the secularization the secularization of the way and the secularization to the gallant and sack better than this day week. A further advantage in favour of the under-taking will be the almost certain termination of the Southern Railroad very near to the place described; affording to the traveller an agreeable and salubrious resting place. Nor is it devoid of historic incident. It was the scene of the capture of the schooper "Ann," in 1837. Under the shady groves of its venerable oaks may be pointed out the humble edifice which the immortal Tecumseh used as a temporary abode during the war of 1812.

(To be paid Quarterly and in advance.) Education.....£15 per annum. Finishing Pupils .... 5 " ad Boarding and Washing 35 " (No extras.)

The second year of this Institution having closed with the annual examinations and distribu-tion of prizes in a most satisfactory manner, MRS. POETTER, in order to increase the advan-tages offered in her school, has sent to England for teachers in several departments of education. She has succeeded in proving that a sound English classical education (which is of the highest importance), combined with accomplishments of every kind, can be obtained at a very moderate rate, and she is determined to employ only teachers of acknowledged ability.

The Finishing Class is under Mrs. Poet-TER's charge, assisted by the best Masters. The studies for this class combine a knowledge of our standard works in Poetry and Prose, with Essays on given subjects, and Extracts from different authors, to improve the style in writing. More time is also devoted to complete the education in foreign languages.

MRS. POETTER feels grateful to the parents of her pupils for their kind expressions of satis-faction at the progress of their children, and begs to assure them that no effort shall be wanting on her part to insure their improvement.

The School will reopen on Monday, the 4th of September next.

Persons wishing for further information are requested to apply (if by letter post-paid) to MRS. POETTER.
