

Figure 16 Prototype of unmanned United States surface seismograph station in the Adirondack Mountains, containing transmitting and receiving equipment and an antenna for communication via satellite with the RSTN system (see Figure 17) (courtesy of Sandia National Laboratories, Albuquerque, New Mexico).

