EXPORT OPPORTUNITIES IN MEXICO

Canadian exports to Mexico were up by 100% during the first five months of this year compared to the same period in 1991.

- ♦ The trade deal should open up a total North American auto parts market of more than $12.8 billion by 1994.
- ♦ Mexico is updating and improving its telecommunications system to the tune of $30 billion over the next 10 years.
- ♦ Mexico's commitment to addressing its pollution problem creates increased demand for more sophisticated and specialized pollution control equipment and technology -- a market worth more than $280 million.
- ♦ Computer and computer parts exports to Mexico are growing fast. The computer software market alone -- estimated at $1.4 billion this year -- could be one of the most lucrative for Canadian exporters under a NAFTA.
- ♦ The consumer and leisure products market in Mexico is rapidly expanding -- Canada is already Mexico's sixth largest supplier.
- Recent reductions in duties on electric components entering Mexico make foreign producers even more competitive than before.
- ♦ The Mexican forestry industry is highly dependent on imports of machinery, with a market estimated at $55 million by 1994.
- Recent privatization in the steel industry and plans to modernize facilities will open a steel technology and equipment market worth some $100 million by 1994.
- Mexico is the thirteenth largest consumer of machine tools, importing 90% of its needs.
- ♦ The Mexican mining industry equipment and services, estimated at $164 million by 1994, relies on imports for over 80% of its needs.
- ♦ The oil and gas equipment market in Mexico is worth more than $2 billion.
- Mexican agricultural machinery purchases are expected to exceed $273 million by 1994.
- ♦ There is a large market for expertise in irrigation and drainage.
- ♦ With a NAFTA, Canada should surpass its 1990 level of $116 million worth of agricultural products exports to Mexico.
- ♦ Mexico will buy $610 million of plastics and resins this year.
- A growing $2.5-billion-a-year tourism industry -- Mexico's second-largest industry after oil -- offers opportunities in restaurant equipment and supplies.
