

The Government of Canada, in accordance with the above considerations of the highest national and international gravity, can do no less than agree to test the unarmed cruise missile over Canadian territory.