"Mr. Tagore's translations are of trance-like beauty."—The London Athenæum.

"... it is the essence of all poetry of East and West alike—the language of the soul."—The Indian Magazine & Review.

"I have carried the manuscript of these translations about with me for days, reading it in railway trains, or on the top of omnibuses and in restaurants, and I have often had to close it lest some stranger would see how much it moved me. These lyrics—which are, in the original, my Indians tell me, full of subtlety, of rhythm, of untranslatable delicacies of colour, of metrical invention—display in their thought a world I have dreamed of all my life long."—William Butler Yeats.

"These poems are representative of the highest degree of culture, and yet instinct with the simplicity and directness of the dweller on the soil."—N. Y. Sun.
