Winning Women's Golf Championship At Philadelphia

In winning the women's national golf title on Saturday it is not too much to say that Miss Dorothy Campbell of Scotland, likewise champion of Great Britain, has worked a benefit rather than a harm has werked a benefit taket that the sentitive that the sentitive taket the sentitive taket to the game in this country, says an east-hit long balls, exceptionally so, but no longer than Miss Margaret Curtis or Miss Anita Phipps. One point that must always go down to the credit of Miss Campbell was the way she played her iron shots off the hard and baked out turf at Merion, presenting conditions entirely different from those she had been accustomed to at home. She could not have had a harder draw, and while not compelled to meet Miss M. Cur-tis or Miss Kate Harley, it may be said that neither showed championship form at match play. Miss Harley lost to Miss Curtis. Miss Campbell's hardest match was with Mrs. C. T. Stout, the former national and metropolitan champion. Mrs. Stout practiced hard for this tournament, and played in her old time form. There is little if anything to choose between these two. If anything Mrs. Stout is honger off the tee. She plays her from beautifully and puts nearly as well as the scoth girl. What she needs more than anything is an expert caddle, for her own judgment at times is wofully lacking. At any rate, Miss Campbell did not hesitate to say after the tournament that she con-sidered Mrs. Stout the best woman golfer in America.
