Business Notices

FINAL NOTICE The collector of taxes for Lunenburg, No. 1, is now issuing executions against all taxpayers, and they will be in the hands of the constable on the 15th. As in previous years taxpayers took little notice of circulars, none will be issued this year. This course is necessary, owing to the larger number of delinquents owing on real estate.

ALL KINDS OF TYPEWRITING. The public Typewriting Bureau has now been opened to the public for the past nine months, and is being patronized by contractors, merchants, doctors, insurance underwriters, civic authorities, government representatives, etc.

The increased patronage now being secured by this department has compelled the management to call in the services of Miss Baxter, who has had six years' experience as a public stenographer. Miss Baxter will take full charge of this department, which is equipped with six new modern typewriters, one wide carriage billing machine, one Edison Rotary Mimeograph, up-to-date filing systems and special machines for the convenience for the quick execution of this line of work.

No order is too small or too large for this office, as a corps of six competent stenographers are held in readiness for any emergency. A competent representative will be sent to any office or address in the city in response to a message, or letters may be dictated over the telephone, if desired. A private office is connected with the department for the convenience of its patrons.

This department occupies nearly the whole ground floor of the Farrell building recently occupied by the American Express Company, No. 25 Canterbury street. The phone number is 1705. SALE OF WINTER COATS AT M. R. A'S. LTD.
