THE EVENING TIMES AND STAR, ST. JOHN, N. B., TUESDAY, MAY 31, 1921

SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATES ARE $23,959,842.14

(Canadian Press Despatch)
Ottawa, May 30.—Supplementary estimates tabled in the house this evening by Sir Henry Drayton, minister of finance, total $23,959,842.14. The figure is low and indicates a close scrutiny of expenditures. Of the amount, $12,000,000, is provided for loans to provincial governments to encourage the erection of dwelling houses (in substitution for an item in the main estimates of $10,455,000 which is dropped), leaving less than $12,000,000 for all other purposes, current, capital and demobilization. The main supplementaries last year totalled $92,000,000 and the year before $36,700,000.

Provision for public works, both for buildings and harbors and rivers are restricted almost entirely to repairs, reconstruction and minor betterments. No large buildings or new works are provided. There is a vote of $100,000 under labor department for unemployment relief and for the same purpose under soldiers' re-establishment $50,000.

COMMISSIONER JONES ON HARBOR COMMISSION
To the Editor of The Times:
Sir,—On the 1st day of August next every ratepayer will be given an opportunity to vote for or against the proposal to transfer to His Majesty the King all the right, title and interest and powers of the city of Saint John in the harbor and certain other wharf properties vested in the city for the sum of $2,000,000.

When the merger takes place, Mr. Ballantyne expresses the opinion that the revenue from the harbor properties (which of course will include those owned by the government) will be sufficient not only to maintain the port facilities, but will permit of extensions in the future. Should, however, the revenues be insufficient the government will have to provide for any deficiency as is done in the other ports which have been nationalized.

In view of the large amount of money that must be spent on the east and west side piers and sheds, and the large expenditures that will have to be made upon roads and for renewals of water and sewerage pipes in several parts of the city during the next few years, it would be unwise, I think, for the city longer to continue the management and control of the harbor properties with its annually occurring deficits.

When Honorable Mr. Ballantyne introduced in the commons the bill for St. John Harbor Commission in the session of 1919, he distinctly stated that the object of the legislation he was proposing was to nationalize the port of St. John, which was, he said, the second largest in the dominion and placed on the same footing with the ports of Vancouver, Montreal and Quebec, upon whose development the dominion government had spent millions of dollars.

In developing the port of Montreal the government had spent $25,000,000, in Quebec $11,000,000, and in Vancouver $5,000,000. The department of railways had spent in Halifax $17,000,000, and a further sum of $8,000,000 would be required to complete the harbor improvements there.

Under these circumstances the Honorable Mr. Ballantyne said that it was only fair and reasonable that the citizens of St. John should be relieved of the burden which they are carrying and that the dominion government should advance the money for whatever further development would be necessary. What he suggested was the appointment of a harbor commission which would assume the bonded indebtedness, amounting to $1,542,715, and issue debentures bearing interest at the rate of five per cent. for $57,283, representing the balance of $5,000,000.

Before agreeing to pay the $2,000,000 the minister had the property valued by the chief engineer of the public works department, whose estimate was $2,128,000, and by P. S. Ross & Sons, accountants, who placed the valuation at $2,297,020. The city of St. John valued the port and facilities at $2,500,966. It will thus be seen that the government's offer to the city is $128,000 less than its engineer valued it at, and $297,020 less than the estimate made by the chartered accountants. The offer of $2,000,000 by the government, Mr. Ballantyne admitted, was low, but he contended that the pier and sheds were in such a dilapidated condition that a large amount of money would have to be spent on them, and under these circumstances he felt the government was not ungenerous to the city in offering for the property what the government now agrees to pay for it.

During the five years, 1915 to 1919, inclusive, the harbor receipts were $707,487, and the expenditures, including interest and sinking funds on debentures, were $766,806, showing a loss to the city during that period of $59,319.

Contrary to the belief of many citizens, the city will not receive in cash the amount of the purchase price, which as before stated, is $2,000,000, as it is the intention of the government to give authority to the commissioners to assume the present harbor debt amounting to $1,542,715 and to issue debentures for twenty-five years, bearing interest at five per cent., for the sum of $57,283.

When the merger takes place, Mr. Ballantyne expresses the opinion that the revenue from the harbor properties (which of course will include those owned by the government) will be sufficient not only to maintain the port facilities, but will permit of extensions in the future. Should, however, the revenues be insufficient the government will have to provide for any deficiency as is done in the other ports which have been nationalized.

COMMISSIONER JONES ON HARBOR COMMISSION
To the Editor of The Times:
Sir,—On the 1st day of August next every ratepayer will be given an opportunity to vote for or against the proposal to transfer to His Majesty the King all the right, title and interest and powers of the city of Saint John in the harbor and certain other wharf properties vested in the city for the sum of $2,000,000.

Before the vote is taken, the city shall publish in not less than six consecutive issues of each daily paper a brief statement of the proposed terms upon which the harbor property and privileges are to be conveyed.

His worship the mayor, as commissioner of finance, has been asked to prepare this statement which, when completed, will be presented to the individual members or the common council for consideration.

When the council shall have agreed upon the nature and terms of the agreement for the sale and transfer of the property the matter will then be submitted to a vote of the electors, who will be given a ballot in this form:

FOR COMMISSION AGAINST COMMISSION.
If the elector is in favor of the transfer, he will place the letter X after the words "for commission," or, if he concludes the city should continue its ownership, direction and control of the harbor property, will place an X after the words "against commission."

Under section 4 of the act passed at the late session of the legislature it is distinctly stated that "unless such ratepayers by a majority vote approve such conveyance, the same shall not be made."

Evidently with a desire that all ratepayers may be given an opportunity to express their preference on this matter, it is provided in the act that "the persons entitled to vote thereon shall be those whose names appear upon the assessment list of the city last filed in the office of the common clerk" and "no ratepayer shall be debarred from voting thereon because of nonpayment of taxes."

A negative vote will mean an indefinite postponement of harbor commission and should the citizens reject the offer of the Ottawa government. It will simply mean a vote of confidence in the city's management of the harbor, which has been exercised and granted to the citizens by His Late Majesty King George the Third, in the year 1784.

As one of the four aldermen who voted for the plebiscite to be taken I think I should offer some reasons for so doing:

When Honorable Mr. Ballantyne introduced in the commons the bill for St. John Harbor Commission in the session of 1919, he distinctly stated that the object of the legislation he was proposing was to nationalize the port of St. John, which was, he said, the second largest in the dominion and placed on the same footing with the ports of Vancouver, Montreal and Quebec, upon whose development the dominion government had spent millions of dollars.
