PRINCE AT OXFORD

Heir to Throne Going in For Sport and Making Name For Himself in Athletics

London, Nov. 22.—"Every one at Oxford is glad to see," says the "Field," "how thoroughly the Prince of Wales is enjoying the life of an ordinary undergraduate, and entering into so many different forms of sport. He rides regularly, generally in the company of Major Cadogan, and that of other undergraduates, in Nanchuan Park, and no doubt it will not be long before he is seen, like his father and his grandfather, in the hunting field; but for the present his position seems so fully occupied that he may postpone a close acquaintance with hunting until a somewhat later date.

"Considering his light weight he is quite a football player, and at the association game has played five times for the second eleven at Magdalen and three times for the first eleven.

"But it is, at long-distance running that he is more likely to make his mark than at anything else, and, after his experiences on the Dartmouth hills, he has had no trouble at all in holding a good place with the Hoagies whenever he has been out with them.

"In fact, if he continues to show his present form, and were ever able to find time to train, we might not have to look much farther for a first-class English representative in Berlin. He also intends to take up the royal game and tennis, and he will have every opportunity of doing so at Oxford.

"In fact, his keenness and excellence in sport, and his hearty appreciation of the possibilities of undergraduate life, are most satisfactory in every way."

SERIOUS FOR THE TAXI MEN

London, Nov. 22.—When the price of petrol is increased by ten cents a gallon in February next, the taxi-cab industry of London will be faced with ruin, unless some arrangement can be made to the cab proprietors say that they cannot bear the additional cost; the drivers say it is as much as they can do to earn a living now, and the home office regulations will not allow the fares to be raised. There are two alternatives to overcome the crisis. Either the petrol "ring" which is controlling the prices must be broken up, or the home office must give way, and allow an increase on the existing tariff for passengers.

IN MEMORIAM

McKAY—In loving memory of Katie C. McKay, who died November 22, 1909.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.

God, in His wisdom, has recalled
The soul He loved had given;
And, though the body slumbers here,
The soul is safe in Heaven.

TRAGEDY OF THE WAR

Bulgarian Woman Shot for Betraying Army Secrets to Turkish Officer She Loved

Paris, Nov. 22.—A tragedy in which a Bulgarian woman's love led her to betray her country and brought upon her swift retribution is told in the "Petit Parisien." According to the special correspondent of that journal at Sofia, a woman of high standing in that capital, wife of a Bulgarian staff officer, was found guilty of betraying the Bulgarian mobilization plans to the Turks and was shot.

A few years ago when she was still a young girl she fell in love with a dashing young officer attached to the Turkish legation at Sofia. Her parents, however, would not bear to their marriage, and when the young officer was recalled to Constantinople, the girl reluctantly married a Bulgarian officer. Some time later the Turkish officer returned to Sofia charged with a special mission, and his friendship was renewed between the two. Finally, it is asserted, the Turk asked her to run away with him. "I have been ordered by my superiors," he said, "to obtain the Bulgarian mobilization plans. If I do not succeed I shall be relegated to some distant command in Asia Minor and we shall have no chance of seeing one another."

The woman pointed out that they were both too poor to think of eloping, and told him to be patient. A few days later she handed him a bundle of documents containing the Bulgarian army war plans. She had taken them from her husband's desk and told the Turkish officer to photograph them and to give the originals back to her.

When the war broke out the Turkish officer was captured in one of the first engagements and papers were found on him, revealing the whole affair. He was tried by court-martial and shot. The young Bulgarian woman, through the wife of an officer, was not spared, and having been found guilty by a special court at Sofia was also shot.

Her husband, determined to wipe out the dishonor on his name, was one of the first in the storming line at Kirk Killiss and fell riddled with Turkish bullets.

"Why are you so sore on that eminent millionaire? He has done some good things." "I was one of them."

He knew—Teacher—"What is velocity, Johnnie?" Johnnie—"Velocity is what a fellow lets go of a wisp with."

In London there is a school in which bachelors are taught to make beds, cook, sew and look after their home needs generally.
