The deep notes have been sounded in the manifestation of English sympathy and brotherly regard in this period of American grief; nothing has rung light or insincere. With the same informed and genuine appreciation that this country evinced at the death of the British queen those who were her subjects yesterday and he who is her son are returning today the offering of sympathetic good will. The two nations begin to understand each other. Their emotions seek the same channels of thought and expression and flow toward kindred objects. The evidences of English good will are no less instant and striking now than they were just before the war of 1898. It is easy to overestimate the importance of these exchanges of sympathy; ies and a strong and ourspoker

WHAT IS ANARCHY?

Extract From Sermon by Rev. Di Herridge of Ottawa.

Anarchism cludes satisfactory definition. It may he even doubted whether it is able to define itself. The seed of it has been sown in lands across the sea, and in the soil of indolence and pride and nameless discontent it flourishes and brings forth its evil harvest. In its calmer moods it may repudiate such a crime as that which now exalts its perpetrator to a pinnacle of infamy. But it has a chronic dispute with things as they are. It imagines that changed conditions are all that is needed to usher in a kind of millennium. And if milder methods of propagandism do not suffice, no one can tell when it may strike blindly at something or somebody who may be thought to incarnate the principles which it is determined to overthrow. On the day after Lincoln was shot, General Garfield said that "it was not one man who killed Abe Lincoln, but the embodied spirit of tyranny and slavery, inspired with a fearful and despairing hate." Much the same remark might be made of his own murder, and the murder of President McKinley.

With such extremists any rational names of the British farmers who came to this province as a result of Mr. Hickman's campaign in the old country, and the proportion of them that have remained and settled here. Mr. Hickman's services have been dispensed with, and no successor, it is said, will be immediately appointed. It is well known that a number of young and some older farmers came out. It is also known that some have purchased farms and will stay. There is at least one in Kings county, and saveral up river. They are a very desirable class of settlers, having sufficient funds to purchase and pay for suitable properties. But there is a suspleion, that quite a number have sone home again, and that some still here are not very favorably impressed with the zeal of the local government immigration department to look after them and live up to the roseate pictures drawn by Mr. Hickman. The result of neglect or supercilious treatment would be to make these prospective settlers dissatisfied and cause them to give their friends in England unfavorable reports concerning this province. It is to be hoped that the government will be able to give a full and clear statement of the result of its short lived immigration campaign, and show that the work of Mr. Hickman on the other side was not rendered of no account by lack of system and sympathy on this side. The matter is one of such vital importance that it deserves the most careful and system and sympathy on this side. CAMP SUSSEX.

CAMP SUSSEX.

In Brigade orders by Lieut. Col. Dunbar at Camp Sussex yesterday the following remarks of the brigade commander appear:—
The camp commandant is well pleased at the result of his inspection of the 12th Brigade, Sussex Camp today. The order and regularity of the cn-campments were satisfactory, and the arrangements for messing and cooking well carried out.

The artillery and cavalry horses are good and well tooked after, more especially those of the cavalry, owing, no doubt, to the squadron stables erected at the expense of the corps.

The tactical manocurres and parade movements were well executed, considering the short time available for instruction.

THE TWO SCOURGES. AN ANTIDOTE DISCOVERED.

A recent remarkable discovery in medicine which has been found to annihilate the appetite for alcoholic drinks and all drugs, even in the most hopeless cases, is attracting a good deal of attention among these interested in temperance work. The medicine is purely vegetable, perfectly harmless and absolutely free from narcotics. It leaves no evil after effects and can be carried in the pocket and taken in absolute privacy, thus dispensing with the publicity, loss of time and expense of an institute treatment.

The medicine has been tested and is vouched for by "The Vicar of St. Michael's,' Rev. Father Quinlivan, Rev. Joseph Egger, Rev. B. L. Fitzserald, Rev. Father Strubbe, Rev. Father McCallen, Rev. M. Gaughren, Rev. A. M. Coventry, Rev. Father Gaule, Sister Augustine, Sister William, S. S. H. Sister Ethelburga, and manny others. A recent remarkable discovery

Dr. Gladden, who believes that Christianity, by ridding itself of certain old dogmas, has attained a higher ethical plane, gives some interesting statistics of the relative strength and growth of the three great branches of Christianity. The Greek church has 38,000,000 adherents; the Protestant churches number 143,000,000 followers and the Roman Catholic church, 230,000,000. No statistics are at hand showing the relative growth of the number of adherents of these three great divisions, but the growth of the populations under their rule is thus set forth by comparison:

tions under their rule is thus set forth by comparison:

The Roman Catholics, in the year 1,500, were ruling over 80,000,000 people; in 1,700, over 90,000,000, and in 1891 over 242,000,000. The Greek Catholics, in 1,500 were governing 20,000,000; in 1700, 33,-000,000, and in 1891, 128,000,000. The Protestants, in 1,500, had not begun to be; in 1,700 they held sway over 32,000,000, and in 1891 over 520,000,000. In the four centuries the political power of the Roman Catholics has more than trebled, that of the Greeks has been multiplied by six, and that of the Protestants has sprung from nothing to a control of one-third of the vorid's population. It is easy to see which of these grand divisions is expanding most rapidly.

JOHNNY ON GOLF. He Writes Entertainly on the Game

Golf is a game that is played with a lot of sticks, a little round ball and a caddle. The caddle is a boy with sim legs and poor but honest parents. You scrape up a small mound of sand and put the ball on top of it. Then you raise the stick over you: shoulder, shout "Fore!" in a loud tone of voice and hit the ball with all your might. The great aim is to knock the ball into a hole which is in the distance. If you lose the ball, you have to get another. There was a hotel clerk who married a rich young woman, and he didn't have to be a clerk any more, so he joined a golf club and wore real diamonds and the finest clothing that wealth could procure. When he went out to play his first game of golf, he looked with proud disdain at the little ball. Then he raised his club aioft and gazed haughtly about him, but instead of saying "Fore!" he yelled "Front!" and for some reason or other he never got into real good society after that.
