

Agriculture and Colonization.

Mr. JAMES W. ROBERTSON, Dairy Commissioner	50
--	----

The purpose of a visit to the British markets in 1892, 50. Prices realized for butter and cheese, 50. Canadian products in relation to English preferences, 51. Importance of bright neat packages, 52. British preferences for names, 52. Importance of branding to prevent fraud, 53. British imports of cheese, by countries, 55. British imports of butter, by countries, 55. The quality of butter wanted in England and how to put it up, 56. Canadian swine products of Great Britain, 58. British imports of swine products in 1891, 59. Canadian beef in the markets of Great Britain, 59. The selection and packing of eggs for the British market, 60. Demand for Canadian poultry in Great Britain, 61. How to prepare poultry for shipment, 61. Mr. Robertson's reception in Great Britain—a successful mission, 62. The Dairy Commissioner's work in Canada,—Progress, 63. Winter dairying—employment of idle capital, 64. A difficulty in dairying solved, 65. The Robertson combination for ensilage—how to make it, 66. Cost of fattening steers—gain per head per day, 70.

Mr. JOHN CRAIG, Horticulturist	72
--	----

Improved methods of packing fruit, 72. General progress in Canadian Horticulture, Provinces of Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, 73. Canadian Horticulture, 74, 82. Experimental Horticulture at the Central Farm, 74. Grafting, 75. Preserving fruits for exhibition, 76. Fungous diseases in fruits,—Remedies for,—General considerations, 77. How to spray, 78. Co-operative spraying, 78. Composition of liquids for spraying,—Spraying mixtures,—Formulas, 79. Treatment of grape diseases, 80. Black Knot,—Remedy for, 81. Anthracnose of the bean, 82. Summary of result—Ammoniacal copper carbonate, 82. Copper sulphate, 83. Treatment of seed beans, 83. Experimental forestry, 83. Preserving apples in natural conditions, 85.

Mr. A. GILBERT, Poultry Manager.....	86
--------------------------------------	----

Value of poultry as a farm product, 86. Income and expenditure, 87. Comparative merits of breeds, 87. Rearing fowl for market, 87. Feeding of poultry, 88. Poultry management, 90. How best to keep eggs fresh, 93.

Mr. FRANK T. SHUTT, Chemist.....	94
----------------------------------	----

The Chemical Department in experimental farming, 94. Farmers' Institutes, 94. Prospective results, 95. Experiments with alkaline soils, 95. Experiments with saline soils, 95. The effect of carbonate of lime, 96. The effect of lime, 96. Illustration cuts, 96—97. Analyses of fertilizers and barnyard manures, 98. Comparative value of solid and liquid manures, 100. Comparative value of different absorbents for stable use, 100. Fermentation of manure, necessary, 101. Fodders,—their general importance, 102. Composition of fodders, 103. Coarse fodders—the corn crop, 103. Comparative value of different fodders, tabulated, 104. Analyses in Agriculture—Concentrated fodders, 105. Relative cost of fodders, 105. Methods of testing value of milk, 106.

Mr. WILLIAM ALEXANDER,—Canadian lean cattle in the markets of Scotland	108
--	-----

RECOMMENDATIONS by the Committee.....	109
---------------------------------------	-----

- A Bounty in aid of Creameries, 109.
- The Dominion Dairy Commissioner, 110.
- A superintending Veterinary Surgeon, 110.

TESTIMONIAL to Sir John Carling.....	111
--------------------------------------	-----