The Harvard Club,
Boston, May 8, 1918.

The Harvard Club,
27 West 44th Street,
New York.

Dear Sirs:

This note is to inform you that Mr. Mackenzie King is leaving Boston tonight for Ottawa. Any letters or telegrams, therefore, which may come addressed to him in care of the Harvard Club, he would be obliged if you would forward immediately to his permanent address, The Roxborough, Ottawa, Canada. The registered letters of which you made mention in your letter received yesterday, have not been received up to this evening. If they have been sent here, they will be re-forwarded on their receipt. If they have not been sent, please be good enough to forward them to Ottawa; or if there should be difficulty in obtaining them from the Post Office, let Mr. King know by the first mail. In any event, Mr. King would be obliged if you would send word to him at Ottawa what disposition has been made of the letters.

Yours very truly,

Private Secretary.
