Nova Scotia Contingent Now in Siberia

Major Stan Bauld, and Capt. Harry Hiltz, with their brave Nova Scotians who left Aldershot and Halifax, this fall have arrived at Vladivostok, Siberia, and are ready for any work they have to perform together with the rest of the Canadian contingent. They are all picked hardy men and can stand the rigors of any climate and will do much in bringing order out of chaos and seeing that the people of Siberia are properly fed and cared for. They will be something of the nature of the famous N. W. Mounted Police.

Their kits are so warm that it is said they can sleep out of doors in a snow bank with safety.

With regret it is stated that the American Naval base at Shelburne, is to be removed at once. A portion of the men leave this week and the remainder will probably go next week.
