Joseph the Wise Ruler in Egypt .- Gen. 41, 38-49.

Commentary.—I. Joseph made ruler (vs. 28-45). 38. Unto his servants —"The kings of arcient Egypt were assisted in the management of state affairs by the bers of the priestly order; and, accordingly, before admitting Joseph to the new and extraordinary office that was to be created, those ministers were consulted as to the expediency and propriety of the appointment. Such a one as this—Doubtless the history of Joseph (as the best of the such as the best of the expediency and propriety of the appointment. Such a one as this—Doubtless the history of Joseph (as the december of the such as the best of the such as the people also stored up grain faith, which was much less than Joseph's."

49. Joseph gathered (Propriety of the such as the people also stored up grain faith, which was much less than Joseph's."

49. Joseph gathered (Propriety of the such as the people also stored up grain faith, which was much less than Joseph's."

49. Joseph gathered up. "This was a low prices such as would then prevail. as this—Doubtless the history of Joseph had been told Pharoh and his servants, and they saw that his long experience with Potiphar as well as his present wisdom would especially fit him for the proposed work. The Spirit of God is—Here is an acknowledgment of the exfastence and power of the true God.
Joseph had expressly told Pharaoh (v.
16) that the interpretation of the dreams was not in him, but that God would give the answer; and now the king attributes the answer; and now the king attributes Joseph's wisdom to the Spirit of God in him. Such an one woud have wisdom, him. Such an one woud have wisdom, could be trusted and would be attended with the blessing of God. 39. Discreet—"Intelligent, having a clear insight into matters." Wise—"This denotes a capacity to devise and employ proper measures to capacity to devise and employ proper measures to gain the ends desired."

40. Thou—This was very unexpected to Joseph and also to Pharach's servants. When Joseph was counseling the king to capacity a man to gather grain, he appoint a man to gather grain, he ald not have had the remotest idea that he would be the man; and the servants who were so very willing that Joseph's plan should be carried out (v. 37) are sitent now, when Joseph's name is proposed. Unto thy word—Joseph honored God before Pharaoh and God honored in the sight of Pharaoh. A little tome ago he was traduced as one of the vilest functions as a significant control of the property o ago he was traduced as one of the vilest of men; now the king honors him as a man of incomparable worth. We may learn from this not to be greatly dejected by reproach, nor puffed up by praise. The best of men have passed through good report and evil report.—Bush. Shall sli... be ruled—Literally. "At thy mouth shall all my people kiss." In the Eastern countries it is customary to kiss anything that comes from a superior. They thus show respect and submission.—Clarke.

11. Diplomatic. "Pharaoh said... there is none so discreet and wise as thou" (v. 39). As Meyer suggests, perhaps that which gave Joseph most influence in the court was not his interpretation of the dream, but his wise, statesmanlike policy.

III. Exalted. "Pharaoh said... Thou shalt be over my house, and according unto thy word shall all my people be ruled" (vs. 39, 40). Joseph stepped from a dungeon to a throne. One day he was a prisoner, the next a prime minister. His degradation by an his training for nobility; the bottom of the pit was his first step toward dignities; his kay coat was stripped off that he might put on royal purple; the march with the slave may be a palace." 42. Took off his ring—This was a token of the highest dignity and also a token of the highest dignity and also an instrument of power, for it undoubt-edly gave validity to the documents to which it was affixed. Thus Joseph was given chief authority in Egypt. "People in the East do not sign their names. They have seals in which their names and titles are engraven, and with which they make an impression with thick ink, in all occasions for which we use the signature."—Kitto, Fine linen—A costly fabric, worn by persons of rank as a mark of honor. "It was exceedingly soft and of dazzling whiteness, and has been sold for twice its weight in gold."—Trench. A gold chain—This was a badge of high office; an emblem of civil authority. 43. The second chariot—The second state chariot in the public process. on all occasions for which we use the second state chariot in the public procession. Herodotus tells us that Egypt was noted for chariots both for peaceful and warlike purposes.—Hom. Com. They cried before him—That is the king's heralds, whose duty it was to go before and announce the coming of the royal procession. Bow the knee—The heralds cried, "Abreck!" This is supposed to be

This probably refers principally to rice, as it grows in tufts, a great number of stalks proceeding from the same seed."—Clarke. "There was not a place in the then known world so well adapted to the production of grain as Egypt."

48. Gathered up—This was according to the advice given Pharaoh (v. 34), that for themselves, but according to their faith, which was much less than Joseph's." 49. Joseph gathered—The king and his subjects owed their lives to Joseph, and through the blessing of God he was able to supply not only the Egyptians, but other flations, with corn when the famine came.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS.

Joseph in Egypt. I. Honored ."Pharaoh said...Can we find such a one as this is, a man in whom the Spirit of God is?" (v. 38). From being traduced as one of the vilest of men Joseph is praised as one of the god-liest. As he had borne his hardships patiently he wore his honors meekly. His exaltation is an illustration of the word of God: "Them that honor me I will honor I. of deliberation, the Thaw jury was dismissed at 4.30 o'clock this afternoon. The first ballot taken after the case was put into the hands of the jury at 5.15 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon showed this result: For murder first legree, 6; for manslaughter, 2; for acquittal, 4. Almost immediately on the nnouncement of this result the two who had voted for a verdict of manslaughter changed their votes to conviction murder.

For several ballots the vote stood 8 o 4. Then there was one more change, which increased the number of those who would set Thaw free on the ground of insanity at the time of the killing to this attitude, the jury was relieved of its task, and all the work done since the first talesman was examined on January 23rd had gone for naught. The New Trial.

But Harry K. Thaw will be tried again for the murder of Stanford White. District Attorney Jerome says it will be October before the new trial can be moved. When court reconvenes on April 29 an application may be made for admitting the prisoner to bail. Mr. Jerone will oppose it. Thaw, while bitterly disappointed at the result, bore up bravely. His family seemed more downcast.

The discharge of the jury, and the de-charation of a mistrial were brought about without dramatic effect. Harry Thaw had been told before entering the

ABBE JOUIN ARRAIGNED

French Priest Charged With Inciting to Rebellion.

Paris. April 15.—The Abbe Jouin, rector of the church at St. Augustin, was arraigned in a Police Court to-day to answer the charge of incitement to recellion from the pulpit in connection with the taking of the church inventories. The court was crowded in con-sequence of the public expectation that revelations were contained in the docu-ments seized at the Papal Nunciature, 825.8 833.4 83.4 83.4 and that the prosecuting attorney would probably read them. The Abbe, replying to the Magistrate, declared that he had never transgressed the

The prosecutor read letters of Mgr. strated that the former Secretary of the Nunciature was continually intri-guing in order to hinder the French clergy from obeying the Church and State separation law, and that he acted as the real head of the Church in France. The court will render judgnent April 13.

New York, April 15 .- A despatch from endon says: Considerable alarm is felt over the condition of the Duke of Marlborough. He is under the watchful care of doctors, who are afraid that there is a recurrence of the heart trouble which so seriously affected him two or three years ago.

The duke has brooded deeply over his matrimonial troubles, and has been interned for several weeks with trained nurses in daily attendance.
