

Good Complexion

When Pimples and Blisters Disfigure the Skin

It means bad blood, bad digestion or constipation. First two are the result of the last. FRUIT-A-TIVES cure all three. When the bowels don't move regularly, poisonous matter remains in the intestines. Instead of the blood taking up wholesome nourishment to build up the system, it absorbs part of this poisonous matter which causes pimples and blotches on the skin.

Gases are formed by this matter, which get into the stomach, upset digestion, coat the tongue, and taint the breath. Fruit-a-tives purify the blood—correct digestion—and clear the complexion—because they cure constipation.

"I am on my second box of Fruit-a-tives now, and can honestly say they are the best medicine for Constipation and Stomach Trouble I ever used."

MRS. F. CODY, OTTAWA, ONT.

These wonderful little tablets are pure fruit juices—prepared according to the secret formula of an Ottawa physician who discovered the method of using fruit to cure disease. Fruit-a-tives act directly on the liver, increase the flow of bile, and thus cause the bowels to move regularly and naturally every day.

Armour's Extract of Beef in the Kitchen.

Armour's Extract of Beef gives a rich flavor of roast beef to hash, stews, ragouts and potpies. It restores to left-over meats the full flavor lost in the first cooking. With Armour's Extract of Beef in the kitchen a soup or sauce is made ready for the table in a few minutes that it would take an hour or two to prepare with fresh meat, and it would not be as good and would cost more.

Don't forget that a 2-ounce jar of Armour's Extract of Beef will go further than an 8-ounce bottle of Fluid Beef. It is therefore less expensive. Use a quarter teaspoonful to make a cup of beef broth, etc., etc.

THE air in an ordinary oven is stagnant. It becomes saturated with the odors of the different dishes cooking—the strongest odor impregnates all. That is why you sometimes get pie with a flavor of onions and roast beef with a taste of fish.

The air in the oven of the

is constantly changing. Fresh air is drawn in from outside the range by our patent oven flue, superheated and forced into the top of the oven. It circulates throughout the oven, keeping every corner at a steady, even temperature. The air is then drawn off through the oven ventilators carrying with it the fumes of the cooking dishes.

The Imperial Oxford Range cooks your food with pure, fresh, dry heat. Would you like to see this range? Call at your dealers. If he can't show you the Imperial Oxford, write to us and we'll send you full particulars and tell you where you can see it.

CUTTING GLASS.

Ways By Which It May Be Done With-out Using a Diamond—Splitting Window Glass.

It often occurs that glass tubes of various dimensions have to be cut where a diamond is not at hand, as in shops and power plants where oil and water gauge tubes must be neatly fitted. The usual method adopted, says The National Glass Budget, is to file a small groove around the tube and separate the glass with a sharp rap at the place weakened by the file. The result is not always satisfactory, because the ends often break unevenly owing to the difficulty of making a straight groove with the file. Better results are obtained when only a small incision is made with a file, just enough to cut through the enamel of the tubes on one side and not all around. While the tube is still warm from the friction of the file the tube is then taken between the thumbs and forefingers, the thumbs opposite the file incision and the forefingers around the tubing, close to, but not covering, the incision. Pressure of the thumbs invariably causes the tube to break in as straight and clean a line as though cut with a diamond.

Another method is to use a fine saw blade, which should be kept fed with white emery, carborundum or pulverized silica sand of hard grit, moistened with camphor, oil, turpentine or water. A straight, steady and even stroke should be made, and the work is carefully done against a gauge the cut will be as true as though it had been ground.

Window glass, especially single strength, can be accurately split either in straight or curved lines by first making an incision through the enamel of the glass and then holding a hot iron close to the incision till a fracture is started. The fracture will follow the straight or curved line with fidelity. The iron should be preferably round and somewhat blunt and with a bulky head, like an ordinary fire poker, so as to retain its heat well for long cuts, especially for thick sheets, to keep the fracture going when once started, even if two heated irons have to be used.

A Marriage of Interest.

The marriage in Tokio on September 11, of Masami Egan, Associated Press correspondent, to Miss Eleanor Franklin, war correspondent for Leslie's Weekly, will be of interest to many.

Mr. Egan is widely known throughout the Orient, as he served during the Boxer War for The San Francisco Chronicle. His work in that field gained him a place on the Associated Press, and during the Russo-Japanese war he sent dispatches from Tokio. He was soon after Tokio, with his wife, to take the place as London correspondent of the Associated Press.

Mr. Egan is well known in Canada, his first newspaper experience having been obtained under Senator Templeman as a reporter on The Victoria Colonist. He also traveled through Canada as representative of the Associated Press with the Prince and Princess of Wales in 1901. Mr. Egan went to Tokio four months before the war began, and so ingratiated himself with the Japanese Government that he became charged with the task of imparting official information to all other correspondents. He has many friends in Toronto and Ottawa, and is especially well known to British Columbians. His last journey to Tokio was the ninth trip across the Pacific (going and coming) that he has made. He is not yet thirty-three.

A Survey Party's Peril.

Mr. James Robertson of Glenora, who has just returned from a survey of Hilsop, Gubford and Misanac townships, in northern Ontario, reports that himself and his party had a narrow escape from death by burning in June last, just after they had started their work. A fire swept over the whole of the townships of Hilsop and Misanac, and parts of Playfair, Bowman, Beatty and Carr. Great damage was done in the two former townships, immense quantities of pulpwood being destroyed. Mr. Robertson and his party were surrounded by the fire, and were compelled to take refuge in their canoes on the Black River, at a point where it is only 100 yards wide. They had to keep themselves covered with wet blankets, and in that way escaped injury, though, despite all their efforts, some of their supplies were destroyed. Mr. Robertson says the townships he surveyed are mostly good agricultural land.

When a Man is Drunk.

The question whether or not Christopher Lawless was drunk when he was arrested the other day, occupied the attention of the Toronto Police Court for some time. The views of numerous witnesses, both official and non-official, were taken on the subject. The police of course declared in favor of the affirmative, but most of the others thought that Lawless was at least sober enough to take care of himself.

A Mr. McEvoy said the prisoner was quite sober. "But," asked Col. Denison, "what do you call sober? I remember one witness here who said that a man was only drunk when he could not stand, could not walk, could not speak." "And," interjected the prisoner, "could not drink."

In summing up the magistrate inclined to the belief that Lawless was drunk, but as there was a doubt let him go on suspended sentence.

Had a Recorder.

Arthur Balfour, England's Premier, was recently making a motor-car journey. With him was a friend, formerly in the House of Commons, and now recorder of an English city. The chauffeur was signalled by a constable to stop. Mr. Balfour was his own chauffeur. The constable insisted that the speed was over the limit. The Prime Minister was sure it was not. "Well, look at your indicator," "Er—have, well, I haven't an indicator," said the Premier, sweetly, "but," with emphasis, "I've a recorder." As the policeman did not know what his own recorder did, he did with the result that the constable heard them laugh and scratched his head, but it was too late to do anything.

MARVELOUS CURE OF SORE EYES

Baby Treated at Two Hospitals Over a Year—Eyes Grew Worse—Doctor Said They Might Be Bad for Years.

ONE BOX OF CUTICURA MAKES COMPLETE CURE

"When my little girl was a few months old, her eyes began to get bad; thinking it was from her teeth, I lived in hopes of them getting better, but as they did not improve I decided to get medical advice. I took her to the Hospital several times, and subsequently to the Children's Hospital at—, to which institution I took her for twelve months. The doctors were most kind and attentive, and did all they could for her, but her eyes seemed to be growing worse. One doctor told me they might be bad for years; I was very miserable at such a prospect. I was one day stopped in the street by Mrs. Todd who told me that Cuticura Ointment had cured her boy, and advised me to try it. I commenced using it that very night. The cure has been marvelous. The eyes have been growing better, and they are now as healthy as if there had never been anything the matter with them. The cure was completed with less than one box of Cuticura Ointment. You are at liberty to publish this letter, and I trust it may be the means of others being cured as my little girl has been.—Mrs. F. Phillips, Grafton St., Waverly, Sydney, N. S. W." Indians Had Liquor. Toronto, Oct. 6.—Allegations, which were made by a correspondent to the effect that liquor has been supplied on a large scale to the Indians in Kent County, will be enquired into by Chief License Inspector Eudo Saunders. It is said that on September 27 two hundred Indians held a pow-wow in a wood near the Kent County line. I don't think they were there for three nights. Several whites were in the "orgies."

Back From the North. Father Point, Oct. 6.—The Dominion Government steamer Arctic, Capt. Bernier, from the far north, passed forward at 8.30 p. m. All are well.

DO YOU GET BILIOUS? No remedy could be more prompt and agreeable than Dr. Hamilton's Pills. No matter where you go you'll find the grand cure they make. Writing from Ottawa Mrs. M. E. Lege says: "For people inclined to biliousness and sick headache I don't think there is a remedy to compare with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I formerly had bilious attacks about once a month—used Dr. Hamilton's Pills and obtained grand results. My stomach has been put in good order and my health greatly improved. No medicine better for men, women or children. Try Dr. Hamilton's Pills—25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00 at all druggists."

We Don't Know Ourselves. London, Oct. 6.—(C. A. P.)—Sir Henry Knight, ex-Lord Mayor of London, interviewed at Liverpool on his return from Canada, said he thought the Northwest was quite capable of rearing produce enough to feed one hundred million people. Canada had many world wonders, but he was of the opinion that neither Canadians nor British thoroughly understood the country's possibilities.

SOME SEASONABLE ADVICE. It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over, and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by all druggists.

Poor Instruction. "Did Jones make much money giving memory lessons?" asked Mr. Dobbs, and his friend explained, says London Modern Society, the reason why Jones' business was not a success. "No," was the reply. "Most of his students forgot to pay him."

COULD NOT BE BETTER. The uniform success of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has won for it a wide reputation and many people throughout the country will agree with Mr. C. W. Madison, of Milford, Va., who says: "It works like magic, and is the best preparation I know of. I couldn't be any better." He had a serious attack of dysentery and was advised to try a bottle of this remedy, which he did, with the result that immediate relief was obtained. For sale by all druggists.

Be at it, and always at it.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow brings the day after.

Men who can't stand prosperity find that the resulting adversity they have to stand.

Women want to wear pretty dresses—well, because they want to wear pretty dresses—so there!

We most of us like to have a new deal so that we could get started fair and then—watch out.

A baseball umpire may love his fellow men, but they do not reciprocate.

It is easier to get a wife than it is to please her after you have her.

The reason that truth is stranger than fiction is because she is not so well known.

To the average little girl a Shetland pony is more to be desired than naturally curly hair or a month of ice cream Sundays.

Some photographs would be better pictures if they did not look so much like the original.

Hay fever may be a fashionable disease, but it cannot be recommended as making beautiful invalids.

Dead Easy. It's easy enough to be merry With nothing but dollars in sight, But it isn't such fun When you meet with a dun At morning, at noon and at night.

It's easy enough to be pleasant When dinner is waiting you quite, But it's not the same stunt To put up a good front When no kind of grub is in sight.

It's easy enough to be jolly When friends are both steadfast and true, But it's different when You're in that old of ten, And no one is speaking to you.

It's easy enough to be happy When daddy is paying the freight; When the same isn't true When he tells you he's through And leaves you alone to your fate.

It's easy enough to be wishing Of good luck that we'd find a streak, But to get the effect We're compelled to connect With the pay roll about once a week.

The Cheapest Cure. The no clothes cure for various diseases is being advocated by some of the latest persons to find the elixir of life without looking in a bottle.

That the races flourished during the days when a shoestring peddler could clothe the whole family did not live forever does not effect the theorists, no matter what mean, impolite things it may do to the theory.

The idea of the new cure is to walk around the back lot, with a high board fence surrounding it, of course, so that the neighbors won't think some statutory has broken from its moorings for the purpose of exercise, meanwhile being clothed only in becoming dignity, and not much of that.

Nature is then supposed to jump over the fence and chase away any disease that the man may have, whether he has it or not.

The theory is a beautiful one, but we can see its finish, with profanity as an accompaniment, in the land where the mosquito sojourneth.

The Reason. What makes the summer fairly so tickle, do you say? With speeches light and airy Why does she start all day And promise she will marry, Then coldly turn away When back within the city She meets her lovers fondly? I'll tell you—it's a pity.

But she can see beyond The holiday pretensions Of Bob or Tom or Jack And knows what his intentions All may be good, alack. He lacks the funds to take her From papa's house, so she Becomes a sort of fakir Beside the sounding sea.

Conclusive Evidence. "The sailor tells me that he fell overboard once and was swallowed by a big fish and that he cut his way out and swam ashore." "Did you believe it?" "I didn't at first, but he showed me the knife with which he did the trick."

Never Can Tell. Full many a gem of purest ray serene Which shows the wearer is a man of taste, Of rare discernment and good judgment keen Proves what an expert can turn out with paste.

Suits Them. "She is the only daughter of a millionaire." "Of course she was spoiled." "The young men don't seem to think so."

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Few People Know How Useful it is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables. Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of lozenges, and other powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in the stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, although in some sense a patient preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

Sober England. In nothing have the habits of English gentlemen more changed than in the use of wine. Time was when each plate and table was enlivened, almost surrounded, by an escort of wine-glasses, ranging from sherry to champagne and tapering thence to madeira and brandy—port, claret, burgundy, the red alternating with the white—and he was its good man and true who did not go through the list and survive.

Today at the great houses you may have what you want, but rarely more than three glasses are visible, for white wine, for red wine and for champagne. Apollinaris is largely in evidence. The fine old English gentleman who made it a merit to get drunk on port and to sober up on claret has disappeared.

Pain-Racked Woman Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills

Strong Statement of Mrs. James Hughes, of Morley, Ont. — She's Strong and Healthy Once More.

Morley, Ont., Oct. 2.—(Special).—What Dodd's Kidney Pills are doing for the suffering woman of Canada, will never be fully known. It is only when some courageous woman breaks the secrecy that covers woman and her troubles that a passing glimpse of their great work is given. For this reason a statement made by Mrs. James Hughes, of this place, is of more than passing interest.

"I was a great sufferer for four years," says Mrs. Hughes. "I was treated by five doctors and a specialist from the U. S. I tried nearly every kind of medicine I could hear of, but none seemed to do me any good."

"I was in bed for nearly three years. I had pains in my spinal column, in my head, over my eyes, across my back and through my left side. I took fourteen boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and now I am strong and able to do a good day's work, thanks to 'Dodd's Kidney Pills.'"
