Very Sad Case of Two Young Girls in Police Court.

More Dog and Sprinkler Cases Heard To-day.

As the heat became more and more excessive at the week end, so rose the thirst of a round dozen who sat in the seats of the cring at the Police-Court this morning.

Of stealing a clock and wheelbarrow from T. Burrows, James Kennedy, who resides in the county, pleaded guilty.

Magistrate would let Kennedy go but would leave the city. The Magistrate remanded the young man till to-morrow.

From Belleville came Edward Brown, who, it is alleged, on Saturday assaulted two men.

STILL NO REPLY FROM THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

Hydro Commission Agent Withdraws After Replacing Fence—Three More Cases In Hand.

In reply to the story published in the Times last Friday about the methods of representatives of the Hydro-Electric Commission in securing easements from farmers, the Toronto Globe of this morning has the following bit of drivel:

Since the publication of the story on Friday the Times has been called upon by several other farmers of Glanford and Ancaster, who declare the Times report to be a truthful statement.

Times readers will remember that this paper gave the news, it went carefully into specific cases, publishing the names of the farmers in several of the cases, giving details of the offers made and of the methods pursued.

obtain permission to go into court, and giving other information, all of which is a record of facts that the Globe could have ascertained the truth of independently of either the Times or "at the offices of the commission."

Before so advising his clients, Mr. Kerr wrote the Attorney-General, setting forth the facts, pointing out the grave danger and requesting that he should issue a fiat which would entitle the wronged owners to apply, in the ordinary way, for an injunction to restrain any one from going upon their lands until they had an opportunity of presenting their side of the case.

SOME MORE CASES. In addition to the cases which have already been specifically mentioned in the Times, Mr. Geo. S. Kerr, K. C., is acting for three other clients, in which farmers had been offered ridiculously small remuneration for what they were asked to give up.

and not on any condition to allow any agent or representative of the Commission to enter upon or do any work on their lands.

In one case the men had gone on the lands, removed a fence and begun work. They at first refused to accept the owner's warning, but subsequently they not only went off, but they replaced the fence and left the premises as they found them.

Time sufficient for a reply from the Attorney-General has elapsed many times over, but Mr. Kerr has received no answer yet.

RETURNING FROM CHURCH.

George Kirkendall Struck by Train and Killed.

Had Come to the City to Attend Sunday School.

Was Taking Short Cut to Home Across the Bay.

George Kirkendall, while walking in the dark on the G. T. R. track in Stuart street yard, was struck on the head by a yard engine, and died a few minutes after. The accident happened about 9 o'clock last night.

He, in company with a man named Andrew Gillett, had come to the city early in the afternoon to attend Zion Tabernacle Sunday school, and the church at night, and, after the evening service, had set out for their home across the bay, cutting across Dundurn Park.

After the accident the ambulance was sent for, and he was hurried off to the City Hospital, but died before reaching there.

The engine was in charge of J. Beattie, 48 Magill street, and of C. McGregor, the fireman. W. Fisher, 87 Crooks street, was the yardman. They did all they possibly could for the young man.

George Kirkendall was 24 years of age, and was working for Mr. S. F. Smoke, a farmer across the bay, and had worked for him for 14 years. He was a member of Zion Sunday school, which he attended yesterday afternoon, and stayed over for the evening service. He was a son of the late Mr. Walter Kirkendall, who used to live on the mountain, and was a sailor on the lake boats, but was drowned near Montreal almost 20 years ago, being washed overboard in a gale.

The young man, Andrew Gillett, who was with Kirkendall, works for Mr. J. W. Smoke, a brother of S. F. Smoke. The unfortunate young man was highly respected, and bore an excellent character. Mrs. Proctor, Ray street north, is an aunt of deceased.

ONLY 95.

Yesterday Was the Hottest Day of the Year.

Highest temperature 95.

Thermometers were not needed to tell the people of Hamilton that yesterday was a hot day—by some degrees, the hottest of the season. That they knew it was attested by the small congregations at church, the few visitors at the cemetery and Dundurn during the afternoon, and the general movement of the people to the Beach and the water front. What wind there was seemed to come from an oven. Immense crowds went to the Beach, and, although the glaring sun beat down there, the breeze off the water was refreshing. The crowds who usually go to the cemeteries and parks in the afternoon took the evening instead, and the city and suburban cars were crowded from 8 o'clock to 10. The shower of the early morning and a somewhat copious rain later in the day made a very welcome change in the temperature to-day.

LIFELESS BODY FOUND.

Sudden Death of Mr. William Smith, Creighton Road.

Dundas, Aug. 9.—Very sudden and unexpected was the death of Mr. Wm. Smith, of the Creighton road, on Saturday. He had left the house in the morning to attend to the stable and do other work on his farm and vegetable patch. He did not return for dinner, but this did not cause alarm, as it was not unusual for him to continue working during the dinner hour, or to drive into town during the forenoon and be delayed past the dinner hour. Later in the afternoon his failing to return and the discovery that the stable had not been cleaned out caused alarm, and search over the place was made, the result being that one of his daughters found his lifeless body lying under a tree on the highest elevation on the place. Doctors Rykert, Main and Lachland were hastily summoned, and their unanimous opinion was that death had resulted from heart failure.

It was thought that death took place eight hours before the body was discovered. Deceased was 74 years of age, and leaves, besides his widow, one son and three daughters at home and another daughter in Hamilton, the wife of Charles Richter, of the postoffice staff. Mrs. Smith's health is in a very precarious condition, she not having fully recovered from a stroke some six months ago. Deceased was of a quiet and retiring disposition and was held in high esteem by all who knew him.

Yesterday afternoon the local lodges of Orangemen and Sons of England held a joint parade to St. James' Church, headed by the band playing sacred music. At the church a much appreciated sermon was delivered. Bert Call, of Galt, was in town on Saturday, visiting his mother. Miss Goodman, of Tyrone, and Miss Watt, of Clinton, are visiting friends in town.

TOLD VIVID STORY OF SAND BAGGING.

Man Who Was Run Out of London Picked Up Unconscious In Hamilton.

Lying in an unconscious condition a man was picked up by the police on the corner of Hess and Stuart streets, near the rolling mills, about 7 o'clock yesterday morning. Some men leaving the mill saw the man lying there, and told him he had better get up or the police would arrest him. Seeing the man's condition they telephoned for the ambulance. It was at once despatched in charge of P. C. Sharp, and the man was conveyed to the City Hospital, where, when received, he appeared to be at the point of death.

The Hamilton police have been in communication with the London police and find the man now in the hospital here to be the same as was in London nearly three weeks ago.

Careful inquiries have been made by the police at the rolling mills and all the hotels in the neighborhood, but no one knows of such a man. The house on Barton street, which the man mentioned was visited by the police, and no such man went there on Saturday night or early Sunday morning.

On his arrival at the hospital there was no money on his person. He gave his step-father's name as Gonias, Malone, N. Y.

The story he gives of being Frank Erne, the former lightweight champion of America, is undoubtedly a fake, for his description does not correspond with Erne's at all; neither does his age, for Frank Erne, the pugilist, would be between 35 and 40, and his height about 5 feet 9 inches; thickest jaw, thick upper lip, lank, weight now about 150 pounds, and no index finger on his hands missing.

It is said that the man now in the hospital is subject to epileptic fits, which are responsible for his lapsing into periods of temporary insanity.

ADMITS BEING INSANE. The man rested quietly to-day and told the hospital authorities that his right name is Frank Goma, and his home is in Malone, N. Y.

His sister had been looking after him and he gave her name as Mrs. A. Smith, of Goldsprings, Milwaukee.

He said he had a faint recollection of being in company with three men, but he was not robbed. He further stated he is the man who was picked up on the C. P. R. track in London.

Around the man's story there is a halo of doubt.

On July 21 the Times received a special press despatch from London, stating that a man named Frank Erne was picked up in a dazed condition on the C. P. R. track and taken to the hospital, where he said that he had been drugged and robbed by a man named Miller. The hospital authorities there doubted his story and judged him to be either a drug fiend or a man with suicidal tendencies.

After a short stay in the hospital he became violent, and evinced a desire to rip up the bedclothes. He was finally transferred to the jail in that city, and was subsequently arraigned in the police court and was told to clear out of the city.
