GODERICH, SEPT. 3, 1888.

LOOKING TO NOVA SCOTIA.

Hon. J. S. McDonald, went to Nova Scotia the train of Sir John A., not to much assist him in recording differences and pouring oil upon the troubled political waters of the discontented colony, as to seek to lay, with a view, perhaps, to his obtaining the Government as a distant day. His organ, the Canada Freeholder, is out with an article which has attracted much attention on account of having, presumably, been inspired by the editor of the Star.

He is in no way a representative of the popular opinion in Nova Scotia when he complimented conveyed as follows:— "No one who dispassionately reflects on the misrepresentations made in the Imperial Parliament relative to the state of public opinion in Nova Scotia, now that the vote of Confederation is at hand, can wonder that his organ is so largely filled with a high spirited people who exhibit when they find themselves bound hand and foot by a treaty in the formation of which they had no voice, and the provisions of which they regarded as a detriment to their interests and obnoxious to their feelings."

The "Missions" review a passing notice of a pungent nature:—"What Parliament declined to do, has done in this case, and the result is a form neither adequate nor adapted to produce any salutary effect. The two leading Ministers of the Cabinet of the Dominion have visited Halifax in order to gain the ear of the leaders whose opinions are of great weight, and who are not infrequently in possession of the public mind. The reception of the missions has been fully as courteous as could be expected, but their journals notwithstanding, being things to arrange themselves on no convenient stage."

In other words Sir John A. went to Halifax with any definite object in view, and succeeded to a charm in doing so. If John S. is at the bottom of this article in the Freeholder, as every one believes, he is either trailing his coat behind him ready to break before the winds, or Sir John A. has done him a good turn, by the way of changing a few lines of the article into a little comedy, to be a hearty "call" from the Nova Scotia people to Hon. John S.'s acceptance of the Government. We have already believed that Sandford had "gone to the bone" in his report, and we are glad to find that he was not so much in error.

STILL SLIDING.

The Tory luminaries are sore vexed with "Gibbons on the brain." The disease has gone on from stage to stage until it has become chronic, and we shall not be all surprised if he comes out some fine morning in the eyes of the public, as the responsible for the drought and the migration with at least three persons to wear that is correct. The last attempt of the luminaries to slide out of its difficulty with reference to the Registry office, is even more comical, if possible, than the last, by the way, while it charges the Warden with lying, while it brings an amount of paltry disingenuousness of which an honest man would be ashamed. For example it invents an article word and foremost for the sole purpose of trying to make it appear that the Warden is guilty of some sort of malfeasance. It charges the Warden with "bringing a direct charge of this kind against an old servant, etc., meaning Mr. Gibbons. What we did say was that the charge against Mr. Bay was scandalous—one of him we spoke, in reference to his report, and we did say that the Government has borne the committee out in every particular, and that must surely be most satisfactory that would be even the praise of the Star for the matter. Mr. Gibbons, we believe, in the discharge of his duty, laid before the authorities all the facts of the case. There was nothing done on the side of the obstructionists! No telegrams hurried! No under-hand dealing! No shuffling! Ah, gentlemen, what the plain truth is that you please, but the plain truth is that you wish to compel the committee to purchase a lot against their will. It is an act of great and gross misfeasance that is well to look sharply after any one who is ostentatiously reviving about the dishonesty of his neighbor. We advise the Star to do its own grinning most truthfully and endeavor stick to Howick, its favorite dervish resort.

The editor of the Star can see for the life of him how the government is to be maintained in office. He has been created with reference to the Fenians. He is aware that the military authorities were caused to issue orders to commanding officers of a month's notice, and that there is some excitement in consequence. It was not that for the order the Globe was not far astray; but if there was no reason whatever, the Government must have been seriously to blame. We should suspect that the Globe is regarded by certain Tory pressmen as their master, they certainly set it above the Government of the country in this instance.

SAY OF PROBERT.—We would invite a perusal of the advertisement of Mr. Grace, by sale a large quantity of very valuable property.

Destructive Fire.

On Sunday morning last about 11.30 the various chandeliers were brought to a hasty close by the starting cry of fire. The conflagration was found to be on the North side of West-st., having originated in the frame tenement occupied by Miss Taylor as a milliner's shop and dwelling.

The fire was of a peculiar character, and spread with a rapidity which was not to be expected. It was first seen by a man in the name of Mr. Dunlop, who was passing by the window of the milliner's shop, and he immediately called to the assistance of his neighbors.

The fire was extinguished after about an hour's work. The loss sustained was not great, but the damage to the property was considerable. The fire was caused by a defective chimney.
