vagaries of the dreamer's brain. CRIME THE RESULT OF SELF-HYPNOTISM.

By the way, we sometimes hear peo ole talk of a "cold-blooded, deliberat micide." According to the hypoth ais of one of the greatest criminalist of the day, the "deliberation," paradoxical as it may seem, may be used as a plea in the criminal's favor, for crime is simply the result of self-hypnotism, and man has become hypnotised by the evil suggestion that on a sudden flashed into his brain and hung there, till, staring at it fixedly with his mental eyes, he became a moral desed look which he entered the green witnessed at Covent Garden Theatre, or Industrial purposes may be readily obtained by the use of a gas-heated steam boiler. We have installed several steam units in the falling the wonderful old man, and his falling the wonderful old man, and his dazed look which he entered the green of the day, the "deliberation," parahis mental eyes, he became a moral cataleptic, and was forced to obey the suggestion. In his normal condition he had no more desire to commit an act of homicide than to eat tallow candles. "Deliberation," therefore, comes to mean nothing more or less than slow self-hypnotism, and "cold-blooded" would express merely the absence of all feeling, as demonstrated by Professor So-and-So, where he begins to stitch his subject's tongue to the cheek. The "odic force" theory of hypnotism being thrashed out, and the discovery having been made that his mental eyes, he became a moral cataleptic, and was forced to obey the of hypnotism being thrashed out, and eighth year, but the discovery having been made that upon the stage. you may put yourself into a cataleptic state by smiply staring steadily and fixedly upon some bright particular object, the suggestion of moral hyp otism is as logical as any, and an infinitely more comforting one than the idea that "criminals are a separate race."
