Margaret, relict of the late John Richardson, died the other day, aged 72. Born in North Shields, Eng., in 1823, her maiden name being McDonald, she was married there in 1845, and came to Canada about 1854, settling in Metcalfe, where she has ever since resided. She was a consistent member of the Methodist Church, but owing to deafness had not heard a sermon for some 30 years. Nine years ago she suffered a very great loss in the leath of her husband. Four sons and one daughter are left to mourn her loss-James, of Kerwood; Wiliam, of Cairngorm; John, of Culloden; Robert and Thomas, of Cairngorm; and Mrs. W. Dymond, of Metcalfe. Frank J. Hutchins, postmaster, of Parkhill, son of W. H. Hutchins, M.P., was married on Thursday to Miss Sadie Griffith, daughter of John Griffith, of Parkhill. The bride was attended by Miss Addie Gibbs; and Miss Wynnie Smith, daughter of Dr. Smith, of Mitch ell, acted as maid of honor. The groom was supported by Mr. Oscar Griffith, of Chicago, and Fred. H. Frequently Cause Many Diseases and Much Suffering-Don't Neglect the First Warning.

PETERBORO, Feb. 9.—Procrastination is not only the thief of time, but the cause of many serious illnesses and much severe suffering. It is particularly the cause of many forms of kidney disease. A slight pain in the back, frequent headaches, burning hands and feet, impaired eyesight, ravenous appetite and constant nervousness or weakness may be the precursors of a danger-ous kidney complaint, although thought little of by the sufferer. In all diseases of these organs it is most desirable to take advantage of the first warning. At the California Midwinter Fair Dr. Price's Baking Powder was found absolutely pure. A MANUFACTURER SPEAKS.

An Independent Factory Owner on the Evils of High Taxation.

Trade Restriction an Evil to the Workers in Many Cases.

At the great trade freedom meeting in the Massey Hall, Toronto, Mr. Paterson, M. P. for South Brant, and a well-known manufacturer, replied to the taunts of Dr. Montague, who asserted that Mr. Paterson should not oppose the policy of high taxation because it put money in his pocket. To the contentions of the Dunnville doctor Mr.

Paterson repied: "Dr. Montague said that I was a manufacturer - that I make biscuits, and jellies, and jams. He did not mention the other lines of my business. I suppose I have no reason to find fault with that, as he charged nothing for the advertisement. But when a man refers to a person's business, especially if that is done in a tone of contempt, I think he must be a little angry. The doctor alleged that I was a protectionist, because, he declared, that I had asked for more duty on biscuits, and that under the National Policy I had trebled my business at Brantford, and put up another factory at Belleville, 'and that,' he says, 'is the man who criticizes my speech.' Well, now, I only repeat these things-these personal matters do not concern you at all, but I only allude to them to give you one thought to take home with you. I do net admit that I am so rich as the doctor makes out. It is not a case for libel, though, because if a man makes you out richer than you are it does not hurt your credit. Take it for granted that the doctor believes whe he says, that the National Policy ha, made a rich man of me-mind, no energy or any ability that I may have is to be taken into account, or the skill of my co-workers in the factory, the artizans, the heads of the departments, the representatives on the road coming into contact with the public, pushing their part of the business. All this seems to have no weight with him. I mention that be-cause I hold that there is not a successful business man in this country conducting any large business whose suc-cess is due to himself alone and to the ability which he has got. It is the men that surround him, the skilled help that he has got, the faithful employes with him. (Applause.) The general on the battle field commands more promi-

for the courage and steadfastness of those men to whom he gives the order to advance, and who, being called to do their duty, and knowing it do it. So it is in reference to any successful busido their duty, and knowing it do it. So it is in reference to any successful business enterprise that is carried on. But, sir, the doctor makes ? allowance for that. The National Policy, he says, has made me wealthy, has trebled my business at Brantford, built me another factory at Belleville, and so on. Take it that way, the point I want you to take home is this: Believe the doctor that I have been made rich by an act of Parliament which his Government passed, and which is on the statment passed, and which is on the statment passed, and which is on the ute book. Has it made you rich? (Applause.) I hope it has. I hope it has made every man here present rich. But if it has not, and if you should chance to know someone who instead of being if it has not, and if you should chance to know someone who, instead of being as well off now as he was when it was introduced, is not so well off, what I want you to consider when you go home is whether the law passed by the Tory Government and placed on the statute book that made Paterson rich has made you not rich or some of you even poorer you not rich or some of you even poorer than you were before; whether this is a just law or not, and one that should be continued. (Applause.) I am glad that the doctor has singled me out, because it enabled me to put the questhat the doctor has singled me out, because it enabled me to put the question in that way, dealing with myself personally without being offensive to anyone else. Think that question over when you go home. If there happen to be any farmers in the room you perhaps will ask yourselves the question whether it is a just law that put up another factory for Paterson i. Telleville, which, by the way, it did not do. We have a business in Brantford and Belleville, and I had them both be fore the National Policy came in, br., believing that what the doctor said was true, and that it has put up another factory in Brantford, and another in Belleville, has it put up any barn for you, bought has it put up any barn for you, bought another farm for you or raised the price of your land, and if not, why not? Have no rights in this country to be conserved and advanced by the Government? Has not every man the same right? We stand on an equal footing in this country, and the Government has to do equal justice to all. Should they be there when they passed a law that has made me rich and made others rich, while it has failed to enrich the community? It is an unjust law, and it ought to be repealed. (A Voice—"Good boy, Billy," and cheers.)

The benefit to be derived from a good medicine in the early spring is undoubted, but many people neglect taking any until the approach of warmer weather, when they wilt like a tender flower in the het sun. Something must be done to purify the blood, overcome that tired feeling and give necessary strength. Vacation is earnestly longed for, but many weeks, perhaps months, must elapse before rest can be indulged in. To impart strength and so give a feeling of health and vigor throughout the system, there is nothing equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. It seems per-feetly adapted to evercome that prestration caused by change of season, climate or life, and while it tones and sustains the system it purifies and renovates the blood.

TO GET GOLD.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.-Unless Congress in ten days passes a law authorizing the issue of gold bonds bearing 3 per cent. interest and running 30 years, or otherwise relieves the Treasury in the replenishment of the gold reserve, Secretary Carlisle will by direction of the President sell 4 per cent bonds to the amount of $62,400,000 for gold. Arrangements whereby this can be done and $65,000,000 in gold be received for the bonds have been perfected, and the contingent contract was signed today. An official memorandum of the transaction was made public at the Treasury this afternoon.
