The only exception was Canadian Pacific, which declined 114 under continental selling. The list recovered in the afternoon, when New York buying orders were received. The closing was

New York, Jan. 23—Wall Street, Noon.
—While the level of prices at times stood above the high mark reached yesterday, the market lacked the virility and unusual absorptive power which has charque acterized it recently. The movement on the whole was fitful and irregular. The traders alternately bought and sold stocks, and only a few of the well-known shares vibrated as much as a point. The Wilson Administration's four anti-trust bills, made public over night, were utilized as a basis of selling by the bears, who sought to convey the impression that certain provisions of the measure were unexpectedly drastic.
