LECTURER SHOWS HOWMONORAIL CAR WORKS

Also Shows How a Burglar's Shadow Might Put Him to Sleep.

Reno B. Welbourn performed some amazing experiments before a wondering audience at the Auditorium on Saturday night. His lecture was divided into four parts—a demonstration of the monorail car, and of heat, light and sound. Some wonderful achievements of modern science were shown by practical experiments, accompanied by a non-technical talk.

In proving that the force of gravity could be overcome by locomotion, the lecturer used a miniature model of the monorail car, built by J. Brennan, of England, and its inventor. At a speed of 3,000 revolutions per minute, the contrivance was found to maintain an accurate balance. It was the investigator's belief that a speed of 200 miles an hour would be safer on a monorail than 50 miles on the railroads of today.

A clever piece of apparatus known as a "mechanical eye" was used to demonstrate the experiments in light. By its use chemicals were exploded, and a tower of blocks was made to fall. "By the same principle," said Mr. Welbourn, "the shadow of a burglar can be made to call the police or fill the room with a suffocating gas."

NO INCREASES FOR WOMEN TEACHERS

Trustees To Inaugurate Graded Salary Scale Instead.

RECOGNITION OF MERIT

Enthusiastic, Hard-Working Members of Staff To Be Rewarded for Their Zeal by Having Remuneration Placed Above Scale.

The women public school teachers of London will not receive an increase in their maximum salaries, at least before the midsummer holidays. The teachers—there are in the neighborhood of 146 of them—recently petitioned the board of education to increase the maximum from $80 to $1-00, but the finance committee, at a meeting on Saturday afternoon, decided to take no action pending the receipt of the inspector's confidential report next June.

When the communication from the teachers was read, Chairman A. M.
Hunt ventured the assertion that the question had been settled by last year's board, when the minimum had been raised from $450 to $550, but no action taken on the maximum.

Should Grade Teachers.

Various members of the committee expressed the idea that there were teachers who were entitled to more remuneration than others, and suggested that a salary scale be arranged on this basis. It was argued that there was no incentive for the teachers under the present system, and if the idea promulgated by the committee is carried out the teachers will be paid on their respective merits. The raising of the minimum in December came as the result of the desire of the board to offer more attractions to young and enthusiastic teachers, and the opinion was expressed at Saturday's meeting that the grading of salaries would have a great tendency to eliminate the teachers from whom the board was not securing satisfactory service.

Recognize Service.

The trustees hope to have a confidential report from the inspector, noting the progress made, the ability shown, and the interest taken in the work by every teacher in the city.
When this is presented, the intention is, according to the feeling of the finance committee, to hand out increases accordingly. Those who are recognized by the board in a substantial way, but those who fail to pass the silent examination, as it were, will be left out in the cold as far as salary increases are concerned.

In Toronto the maximum for women public school teachers is $1,000, and in Ottawa, $1,100.

Principals Want More Money, Too.

The public school principals want more money, also. Though no formal request has been made by them for an increase, the matter is the subject of the committee, and it is expected that the principals will send a written communication for consideration at the next annual meeting, the maximum is $1-600, and the opinion was expressed by members of the committee that an increase should be given, as teachers paid by one-quarter the responsibility being paid by the Collegiate Institute.

TRACES EVOLUTION OF MODERN ARTILLERY

Aylmer Officer Lectures on Subject—Says Canadian Service Is Under Strength.

Major Walter James Brown, of Aylmer, lectured on "Artillery" before the officers of the London garrison in the lecture room of the Armouries on Saturday night.
Col. Hodgins, D. O. C., of No. 1 District, presided, and a good number of officers were in attendance. Major Brown dealt with his subject in a most interesting manner, and with a wealth of technical detail which proved of great value to the militia artillery officers present.

Major Brown traced the history of the development of artillery from the earliest times up to the present. Artillery was mentioned in the Old Testament, and ancient reference was made to it in Greek history. The invention of gunpowder was applied to any machinery for the hurling of heavy projectiles. The invention of gunpowder was the beginning of the modern artillery. From crude cannon mounted on carriages, the demand for more effective weapons had evolved better and better guns, until in the naval guns mounted by ships of the Dreadnought type the limit was about reached.

The early cannon had been succeeded by heavier guns. These had the disad-vantage of being immobile, and when once in position were captured and recaptured according as the tide of battle flowed.

Then the introduction of comparatively long-range rifles resulted in the artillery becoming ineffective until better types of guns were evolved. And so the march of progress has gone on until today in the navies of Great Britain, Germany, and the United States and Japan are to be found guns that throw projectiles weighing 1,200 pounds a distance of four or five miles.

The service is not up to the strength it should be in proportion with other arms of the service, Major Brown stated. Its efficiency is exceptionally high, owing to the splendid training received at Petawawa each year, and the excellent esprit de corps in evidence all over the Dominion.
The future would likely see a big increase in the number of batteries in Canada, he said.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the lecturer upon motion of Major W. Wood Leonard, seconded by Capt. G. N. Weekes.

MEXICAN FEDERALS TO USE A MONOPLANE

[Canadian Press.]

Williamsport, Pa., Feb. 9. — A monoplane said to be capable of carrying two people at the rate of 60 miles an hour, was shipped by a local inventor today to Col. Carlos Alencar, of the Mexican federal army.
Tests will be made, and if they prove satisfactory it was said that the monoplane would be purchased by the federals for scouting purposes.
