LYND GEORGE APPEALS FOR FAIR PLAY

SUGGESTS NEW TOWN PLANNING SCHEME TO CITY

F. G. McAlister Would Put City Hall in the Market Square.

URGES CONVENIENCE

Places New Union Station West of Tecumseh House.

Believing that the city of London should look well into the future before going into any expenditure of public money, F. G. McAlister, Imperial Bank cashier, outlines with considerable detail a program for centralizing and grouping the public buildings of London.

The idea of his suggestion is to prevent the city being drawn into a make-shift plan of putting a building here and there, regardless of their suitability to their district or business. Mr. McAlister believes it might take as long as 25 years to work out the entire plan, but urges that every step be taken in the meantime toward a definite final objective.

"Every Londoner knows," states Mr. McAlister, "that within the next two decades large amounts of money will be expended here on public and semi-public buildings of one kind and another. And every Londoner who has the best interest of the city at heart would like to see some plan mapped out in advance looking to the co-ordination of this construction program, so that this city will eventually have a group of buildings that will prove effective both architecturally and from the standpoint of accessibility."

"If, on the other hand, these buildings are run up haphazardly, without reference to any forward looking plan, as witness the proposed placing of the new city registry office, the city will have lost the opportunity of establishing an imposing and efficient center for which its activities would naturally radiate, and for which the coming generation would not have to apologize."

Money spent over a long period of years possibly, money in large amounts is going to be spent on public buildings. The city cannot get away from it. The question is, will Londoners have anything to show for the money spent on the expenditure when the program of construction, or the construction minus the program, is complete?

"The following outline is merely suggestive and offered for the purpose of emphasizing the necessity of some plan—not necessarily this one—clear the square bounded by York, Talbot, King and Richmond streets of all buildings but those facing like the Bank of Toronto Building, on Richmond street."

(b) Place the new union station on the south side of York street and to the west of the Tecumseh House, thus facing it north on the above square, with the tracks where they are to the south.

(c) Place the new postoffice on the south side of King street, west of the Bank of Toronto Building and facing north on King and west on the above square.

(d) Place the new customs house to the south of the new postoffice, facing it south on York street and west on the above square.

(e) Place the new registry office on the southwest corner of King and York streets, facing east on the above square.

(f) Leave the north side of the square to private initiative. It already has a number of fine buildings.

BRITISH SHOW TO BE HELD IN 1924

Ottawa, Oct. 14.—The extent to which Canada will participate in the British Empire exhibition, to be held in London in 1924, will probably be finally determined by Parliament. The matter was before cabinet council yesterday. It was understood that Hon. W. S. Fielding, minister of finance, who is expected to return from the old country in two or three weeks, would make a special report on the project, and that, in view of the large expenditure involved in the administration of Canada's share would be placed under his jurisdiction. Final decision as to whether or not Canada would participate was not reached.

Troops Begin Evacuation From Eastern Thrace as Allies Arrive.

Constantinople, Oct. 14.—The formal acceptance by the Greeks of the Mudania armistice agreement was transmitted to all the signatory powers this afternoon by George Simopoulos, the Greek high commissioner in Constantinople.

Adrianople, Oct. 14.—Evacuation of the Greek troops from Eastern Thrace under the terms of the armistice signed by the allied powers and the Turkish Nationalists at Mudania, was due to begin today in accordance with a formal order issued by the Greek military headquarters here. The Greek officers are making an effort to maintain discipline among their troops so as to carry out the evacuation without disturbing incidents.

The sentiment in favor of resistance has been largely modified by announcement of the pending arrival of 5,000 allied troops, as the Greeks obviously are unwilling to oppose the allies, although they might have made a determined stand against Turkish soldiers.

BY STAFF REPORTER.

WINDSOR, Oct. 14.—In an interview with The London Advertiser today, Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario, expressed the opinion that the solution of London's transportation difficulties would be the amalgamation of the London street railway and the London and Port Stanley Railway commission under one commissioner.

Sir Adam is emphatic in his opinion, however, that the question should be left to the electors.

SEEKS PROBE IN PASTOR KILLING

Mrs. Hall Asks Governor To Have Competent, Fearless Officer Investigate.

Family Willing to Have Examination to Prove Innocence.

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 14.—Asserting that Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her family cannot longer be silent regarding the flood of rumors centered upon them in the double murder of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills, her attorney, Timothy N. Pfeiffer, last night requested Governor Edwards to place the investigation exclusively in the hands of a competent, fearless officer of the state.

The lawyer made public a letter to the governor, criticizing severely the tactics of the present county investigators and the conflict between them.

"Mrs. Hall, her brothers, and all her relatives," the letter said, "are now, and have been from the beginning, desirous of submitting to every test of their complete innocence which a thoroughly comprehensive, intelligent and coherent investigation demands."

"Such an investigation has not yet been made," Pfeiffer wrote, "nor do the methods hitherto employed by the present prosecutors indicate that it ever will be or can be made by them. The best result of their activities up to the present, so far as a solution of the crime or the development of any clue reasonably looking toward the solution is concerned, is absolutely nil."

Raymond Schneider, who had accused Clifford Hayes of the double killing, was brought to New Brunswick yesterday, and was locked up in the Middlesex County jail on charges of perjury and of impairing the morals of Pearl Bahner.

FIRES SHOT AT MILK TESTING

William Brown Doubts Dr. Downham's Authority for Defending System.

Lauds Stand of Mayor Wilson as Fair to Dairy-men.

Protesting against the tests which have been made in the county for signs of tubercular disease in cattle, the following letter has been written to The London Advertiser for publication by William G. Brown, dairyman, R. R. 8, London, Ontario. The protest is that the present procedure of testing cows will drive the small dealer out of business completely, leaving the public at the mercy of a few large firms:

"In the first place, if according to your medical health officer, pasteurized milk is so nutritious and health-giving, why does he not use it in his own family? He writes, 'Why does he not inform the public that he does not use, either tested or pasteurized milk, but just buys his supply from an ordinary herd. A few days ago the paper, Country Gentleman, published the statement that city of Hamilton had tested their milk supply and had not found any trace of tubercleosis.'

"Even if our cows are tested and those showing tubercular signs are slaughtered, what will happen when our neighbors who have not tested herds because they supply some London firms with raw milk, allow their untested cows to come close to fences in our adjoining field?"

"It will be necessary to erect fences some distance from present fences, as government experts claim that such cows should be kept apart."

"The producers are willing to have all milk tested, and if any is found affected, to kill the animals responsible at their own loss."

"I would like to ask Dr. Downham how he knows that the present test is the best? Does he know anything about cow testing? We have good Turn to Page 3, Column 2."

CITY POLICE CONVINCED LAST LAUGH BEST LAUGH

Jas. Anderson Pays $200 for Having Liquor in Warehouse.

James Anderson, who claims Wabana as his home, paid $200 and costs into police court this morning for having a bottle of liquor in a place other than a private dwelling.

Officers passing a warehouse last night noticed the office door open. They entered and found an employee sleeping. They woke him and asked him if he knew the door was open. He replied negatively and asked them to close it. Shortly after they departed, two strangers arrived. The officers returned and heard the trio laughing because the police had over-looked a "crook" on their first visit.

The officers decided to have the last laugh and returned, arresting Anderson and seizing the quart.

URGES LABOR TO WIN ELECTION

British Party Organ Issues a Stirring Appeal to Working Classes.

"Herald" Declares 400 Seats in Parliament Will Be Contested.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—A call to Labor to rally its utmost efforts to win the coming electoral fight is a big type feature of the Labor party's organ, the Herald, today. "A general election is imminent," says the article. "The flowing tide is with Labor, and if it is taken by the men and women workers throughout the country, it will lead to a great electoral triumph."

The newspaper says 400 seats in parliament will be contested by Laborites. It appeals to every worker to contribute personal service and money to secure a victory. Emphasis of the urgent need of financial support is laid in the following paragraph of the article: "Our opponents, who know that this is Labor's opportunity, measure their financial resources in millions of pounds. Their war chests are filled by the sale of honors, by the industrial kings, the oil kings, the newspaper kings and the shipping kings. The workers' party depends upon the pennies of the workers. A million shillings will give £50,000—the price of a single peerage."

DEFENDS GOVERNMENT FROM ATTACKS, DENYING ATTEMPT TO FORCE WAR IN NEAR EAST

In Thrilling Speech at Manchester He Declares Britain Kept Europe Free From Bloody Warfare by Prompt Action—States French Agreed to Defend Straits by Force.

Manchester, England, Oct. 14.—Premier Lloyd George received an enthusiastic welcome when he reached the Reform Club here today for luncheon before delivering his eagerly awaited political speech. The huge crowd outside the building extended practically the whole length of the street on which the club is situated, and the premier's appearance was the signal for a great burst of cheering.

When cries of "Speech!" were heard, Mr. Lloyd George paused a moment, and then, commanding silence, with upraised hands, he said:

"I thank this great gathering for

High Lights in Premier's Speech

"We received a message from the French government that if either the Greeks or the Turks invaded the neutral zone they would have to be resisted by force by the allies. We accepted that. We thought they meant it."

"It's no use trying to bluff a first-rate fighting animal. It's always a mistake to threaten, unless you mean it. The Turks knew we meant it, and that's why we have peace."

"I AM told we have departed from the methods of old diplomacy. That's very sad. The old diplomacy ended in the most disastrous war this world has ever seen. The amateur diplomacy of 1922 has, at least, brought peace."

"THERE has been speech after speech of intolerable abuse, and I am told to bear it like a Christian. But there are too many people about the world who think it is the business of Christians to be massacred by Turks or pro-Turks. I am not that sort of Christian."

"If there is to be a change, there is no one who would welcome it more than I. I have had a long spell and a very hard one. I love freedom. But I will serve my country in any capacity."

"I CAST myself on the people, whose cause I have never betrayed during the 32 years of public life."

BUFFALO BARGE SHORTAGE TIES UP GRAIN MOVEMENT

Scarcity Prevents Removal of Twenty Million Bushels to Seaboard.

New York, Oct. 14.—Twenty million bushels of grain at Buffalo cannot be moved to the seaboard because of the shortage of barges for use on the New York barge canal, it was announced today by John D. Dunlop, chairman of the state waterways conference committee. Officials declared that every available barge was now in use in the canal, but that the supply was still far short of meeting the emergency.

The grain transport rate from Buffalo to New York has advanced from eight cents a bushel to fourteen cents, it is said. The New York board of trade and transportation has called a special meeting to consider the situation.

SNOW FLURRIES HALT SHIPPING ON MICHIGAN

Detroit, Oct. 13.—Snow flurries over general over central and northern Lake Michigan yesterday the storm in the far north approaching blizzard proportions and delaying lake shipping. A 40-mile gale raged over Lake Superior.

The snowfall was reported from as far south as Port Huron. In Ogema County, snow, driven by a cold wind, continued for an hour. Some potato-growers, who have not finished their harvest, expressed fears for their crops.

MAINTENANCE-OF-WAY MEN ELECT PRESIDENT

Dauphin, Man., Oct. 14.—F. H. Fljozdal was elected grand president of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance-of-Way Employees and Railway Shop Laborers at Dauphin yesterday. He came to this town just over a year ago to take over the duties of roadmaster, Dauphin district, Canadian National Railways. He came from War Road, Minn., where he was section foreman. He was formerly general chairman of the maintenance-of-way employees of the C. N. R. in this district, and later vice-president.

greeting me to this city to put the case of the government in the efforts which they have made to establish European peace and prevent bloodshed from spreading throughout Eastern Europe."

Defends Course.
In beginning his speech at the luncheon, and thus raising the curtain on a new act in the political drama which may mark a climax in the career of the striking central figure, Lloyd George declared the people of this country must not believe that their government had endeavored to rush Great Britain into war.

"We have not been war mongers, but peace makers," he said. "The premier arose amid a tense silence of expectancy on the part of his hearers, who were looking to him to begin the fight for his political life."

A great array of journalists eagerly seized upon his words and rushed them off to the four corners of the globe.

Continuing his defence of the government's policy regarding the Near East, Mr. Lloyd George said the negotiations had been conducted in a manner unprecedented in this country. The government, he declared, had been assailed with misrepresentation such as no government has ever been subjected to. The country would resent this, he declared, adding that there were "safer people let loose" in the press in these days.

Aided by Speech.
"My task has been made much easier," declared the premier, "by a speech which Mr. Chamberlain, with clarity and lucidity, point and force, delivered yesterday."

"Our object in the action we took was threefold: The freedom of the Straits, the prevention of the war spreading into Europe, and the prevention of the repetition in Constantinople and Thrace of the unutterable horrors of Asia-Minor."

"The war of 1914 practically began in the Balkans. We had to act promptly, resolutely and firmly. Since 1914, the Turks, according to official testimony, have slaughtered in cold blood 1,500,000 Armenians and 500,000 Greeks without any provocation at all."

"I am sorry to see that the Liberals have been pleading that it was none of our business to interfere between the Turks and their victims. That was not the old Liberal doctrine. I maintain that the policy we adopted regarding Turkey was in accordance with the highest interests and traditions of this land, and we have reason to be proud it succeeded."

Will Use Sword.
At one point Mr. Lloyd George declared dramatically, with his head thrown back:

"As long as I have a sword in my hand and God gives me strength to use it, I will use it."

Continuing his dealing with the Near Eastern situation, the premier said:

"Sir Charles Harrington warned us that there were from 15,000 to 20,000 armed Turks in Constantinople. The premier told of the steps that had been taken to control the situation around Constantinople."

"We received a message from the French government," he said, "that if either the Greeks or the Turks invaded the neutral zone they would have to be resisted by force by the allies. We accepted that. We thought they meant it."

"It's no use trying to bluff a first-rate fighting animal," continued Mr. Lloyd George. "It's always a mistake to threaten unless you mean it. The Turks knew we meant it, and that's why we have peace."

Old Diplomacy Failed.

"I AM told we have departed from the methods of the old diplomacy. That's very sad. The old diplomacy ended in the most disastrous war this world has ever seen. The amateur diplomacy of 1922 has at least brought peace."

"No one knows better than Lord Grey," the premier went on, "that in international affairs there are factors over which you have no control. It is better therefore to be charitable to others. It's no use throwing stones at people who are doing their best to work through difficulties. I did not improve the policy, I inherited it. The agreements were entered into before I became prime minister. I am not blaming anybody for anything in which I do not take part myself."

"We have had to recast our policy. We have made the best of it, and we have succeeded."

At one point in his speech, Mr. Lloyd George declared:

Bear Like Christians.
"There has been speech after speech of intolerable abuse, and I am told to bear it like a Christian, but there are too many people about the world who think it is the business of Christians to be massacred by Turk or pro-Turk. I am not one of that sort of Christian."

A little further on the prime minister said:

"If there is to be a change, there is no man who would welcome it more than I. I have had a long spell."
