On Active Service

MISS BERTHA SMITH, supervisor of child welfare work in London and chief of the child welfare nursing staff, Miss Smith is a graduate of St. Luke's Hospital, New York, and spent six years in private nursing in Paris, France. During the four years of the war she served in France with the St. J. Ambulance Brigade and on her return to Canada and to London began at once to interest herself in child welfare. An association was formed and the work developed rapidly into the present efficient staff, by which Miss Smith and her staff of several nurses have reduced the infant mortality rate of this city to a noteworthy number, and through their clinic, home and institutional work are giving health and an assured future to many hundreds of London babies.

By Miss Gidley during the past three years. She is a daughter of Major and Mrs. W. G. Gidley, of Leamington.

Mrs. George Tupholm, Hamilton road, was the hostess of a delightful shower last evening in honor of her niece, Miss Irene Smith, of Lansing, Mich., whose marriage to Frank Bates, also of Lansing, takes place early in September. The guests included a number of the girl cousins of the bride-elect, Marjorie and Gladys Tupholm, two pretty wee girls in dainty frocks, brought in the gifts in a ribbon-decked basket. Music and games were enjoyed and dainty refreshments were served.

An enjoyable winter roast was staged on Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Flannigan, in London Township, when some 40 guests gathered in honor of a party of out-of-town relatives. Progressive euchre followed the bonfire part of the program, and games, music and dancing were enjoyed. The prize winners at cards were Miss Anne McGillivray, of Cornwall, and Ed. Flannigan, and the consolation went to Mrs. Joe Rumble and John Hart (Cornwall). Mrs. Flannigan was assisted by her daughter, Mrs. W. Worrall, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Russell Flannigan, and by Mrs. James Mills, in serving dainty refreshments. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. and Mrs. John Hart, Miss Thelma Degan, Miss Annie McGillivray and Alex Flannigan, all of Cornwall.

A number of girls of the Gorman-Eckert Company arranged a jolly lunch party for the women of honor of Miss Dora Webb, who is leaving shortly to take up other work. Atkins, M. Palmer, M. Fellow, D. Webb, J. McNeal and Mrs. A. Dust.

Voga that she is the winner of the silver medal awarded by the University of Toronto for her intermediate eight singing examinations, which she recently passed with first-class honors, taking the highest marks of any candidate in the midwinter and midsummer examinations. SHOE REPAIR ORDERS
FROM ALL OVER CITY

J. Stroud Gives Credit for Growth of Business in Workmanship and Free Press Classified Advertising.

The far-reaching power of daily Classified Advertising in The Free Press has been forcibly demonstrated to yet another regular user of these little wonder-workers.

J. Stroud, the English shoe repairer, of 148 Bruce street (at Wortley road), is the latest booster for this economical style of publicity. Orders for shoe repairs have been the means of putting in business where it is to-day, stated Mr. Stroud to a Free Press representative yesterday. As evidence of the progress made since the shoe repair was opened just six months ago, the proprietor is replacing his present machinery with new equipment, capable of taking care of a steadily increasing output.

Twenty-three years in the boot and shoemaking and repairing industry has ably fitted Mr. Stroud to execute the fine class of work his customers are getting. Included in this lengthy term of service are the professional craftsmanship in England and three years as foreman of the rebuilt shoe department with the Hurlbut Company, of Preston, Ont. As a result of the training Mr. Stroud received while with the latter firm he now specializes in repairing shoes on shanks of their make.

"All British" is the English shoe repairer's claim for his business. As far as possible all materials used are produced in this country, and the feature that has brought great popularity is that all shoes are shined and fitted with new leaces before being sent out. Of course, the shoe is not delivered, and unless the work is found satisfactory no charge is made. It is significant that so far no claims of this nature have been made.

Mr. Stroud's advertisement appears every day under Classification 29 in The Free Press Classified Section.

THE CHILD AWAKES.

The light of dawn rose on my dreams, And from afar I seemed to hear In sleep the mellow blackbird call Hollow and sweet and clear. . . .

O listen the droning of the bees, And see the roses take delight; And, see, a cloud stays in the blue, Like an angel still and bright. . . .

The grayness of the distant hills Is silvered in the lucid East, See, now the sheeny-plumed cock Wags haughtily his crest.

"O come you out, O come you out, Lily, and lavender, and lime; The kingcup swings his golden bell, And plumply cherries drop the time."

"O come you out, O come you out! Roses, and dew, and magnolia, Your flower is the poppy. Sweetly the morning star is set."—Walter le Mare, in "Songs of Childhood."

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wesley Pearce, Jaffa, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Stella Irene, to Murray L. Plato, son of Mrs. Viola Plato, Springfield, the wedding to take place this month.

THE WAYS OF MEN.

I wish to join the club with a question or two I want to ask. If a young man is keeping company with a girl and he tells her that he cares for her, and also tells her that she will never have to give him up, should she consider herself almost, or as good as engaged to him? SWEET SIXTEEN.

Answer—Certainly not; why should he? A man is engaged to a girl only when he has asked her to marry him, and she has consented to do so. If you are wise you will not encourage a man to abuse every cause. Such a friendship is like a flower; if planted in good, firm, substantial ground it flourishes and blooms. But if planted on the rocky soil of the exterior it falls to shreds and is blown away by the wind. Don't take him seriously. You are only much too young to even think of such things.

DANCES AND BEAUX.

This is the first time I have written to the Query Club ever since I joined it. I am a citizen of the United States, but am like Canada better than any other country. Well, I think you don't know anything about "B. B." but I think there has been enough argument on that question, so won't give my opinion. Now, I would like to ask a few questions. Is a girl of 15 too young to have a boy friend and is she too young to go to dances? I like dancing and want to go to a dancing school for five years in the States. Now, I won't let my letter get too long, but will just say "thank you" for the space you have given me. THE YANKEE.

Answer—Fifteen is younger here than it is in the United States. Our girls don't grow up so soon, and we think it is time enough for boy friends and dances. That is, of course, dances in public places. It is quite all right for a girl to go to parties, and of course there will be boys there, and she will make boy friends at school, but perhaps you mean an exclusive boy of your own to go to dances with. Seventeen is time enough to begin doing the grown-up things; you can't be a little girl again, you know, and 17 years is a very small bit of the three score and ten.

A PREFERENCE FOR MEN.

I have just returned from summer resorts, and such a wonderful time I have had, just like the princess in a fairy story. My sister stored up all the Query Club letters until my return, and I have received some new and interesting correspondents as well. Thank you, "Bachelor's Button," for the compliment you made me the other day (if a nose that spreads all over the face can be considered small). I am afraid if "B. B." and I should meet we would clash, being of such diverse opinions. Whether one believes in platonic friendship or not, one must admit that it does exist. I know of several cases and we see it in every phase of life. Take, for instance, the members of the Query Club who correspond; surely there are some cases there. Plato was a philosopher in his day, and I am sure

MRS. JANE SNELL, of Huron street, Exeter, who recently celebrated her 85th birthday. Mrs. Snell, who is known to a wide circle of friends as "Aunt Jane Snell," came to Canada, with her parents, from England in 1842, and settled in the "Devonshire district," near Exeter. This youthful old lady does delightful fancywork without the aid of glasses. Her recipe for a long life is a mixture of "contentment, hard work and strong tea." Mrs. Snell is an Anglican, one of the oldest members of the Trinity Memorial Church, in Exeter, and is a loyal Conservative, keenly interested in the political issues of the day.

W. C. GOOD LIKELY TO REFUSE NOMINATION

Reported He Will Not Stand Again in Riding of Brant.

PARIS, Aug. 14.—When the Progressives of Brant County meet here tomorrow for the nomination of a candidate for the coming federal elections, it is stated on good authority that the present member, W. C. Good, will decline to be a candidate again. His health and the pressing demands of his private business on his farm are the reasons given for his disinclination to try for another term at Ottawa.

FANATICS BLAMED FOR THEFT OF TWO CROSSES

HAMILTON, Aug. 14.—Fanatics are blamed for the theft of two crosses from St. Mark's Anglican Church. The thefts were noticed when the sexton missed the professional cross from one of the altar stalls, where it had been left after the service on Sunday. The other cross was an altar cross.
