ATWOOD R. BANKS

It is with deep regret that we record the death of Atwood R. Banks which occurred at the Hospital in Halifax on Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 17. He was injured on Monday, Dec. 8th, while at work in his shop, but it was hoped not seriously. For a few days it seemed that he was improving but was taken suddenly worse and his physician advised his removal to the hospital. He left early Wednesday morning accompanied by Chester Bartheaux, but on arrival at the hospital it was found too late for any efforts to be of avail and he passed peacefully away. Just one year and a day before Atwood's death his brother Ira died and this occasion seems doubly sad. Besides a sorrowing wife and family of five children, three girls and two boys he leaves to mourn their loss a mother, who is at the present time in Florida, one brother Fred, and sister Mary, and many other relatives and friends. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved ones in their trouble. "Sometime we'll understand." The funeral was held from the Baptist Church Sunday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. I. A. Corbett. The pall-bearers were Vernon Leonard, Elden Marshall, Joseph and Lorenzo Elliott.

ALL HE HAD

A medical student was talking to a surgeon about a case.

"What did you operate on the man for?" the student asked.

"Three hundred dollars," replied the surgeon.

"Yes, I know," said the student. I mean, what did the man have?"

"Three hundred dollars," replied the surgeon.

TOO DEEP FOR HIM

"Strange case, that of Mr. and Mrs. Harkins."

"How so? Divorces are common. I don't see anything so remarkable in the fact that they have separated."

"Oh, it isn't the separation. But here it is nearly two weeks since the decree was granted, and neither of them has got married again. I can't understand what the motive was."
