

CONTENTS.

xx

- Preparations to observe the Transit of Venus, and what happened in the mean time at the Fort - - - - - Page 134

CHAP. XIV.

- The Ceremonies of an Indian Funeral particularly described. — General Observations on the Subject. — A Character found among the Indians to which the Ancients paid great Veneration. — A Robbery at the Fort, and its Consequences; with a Specimen of Indian Cookery, and various Incidents - - - - - 144

CHAP. XV.

- An Account of the Circumnavigation of the Island, and various Incidents that happened during the Expedition; with a Description of a Burying-place and Place of Worship, called a Motu - - - - - 157

CHAP. XVI.

- An Expedition of Mr. Banks to trace the River. — Marks of subterraneous Fire. — Preparations for leaving the Island. — An Account of Tupa - - - - - 173

CHAP. XVII.

- A particular Description of the Island; its Produce and Inhabitants; their Dress, Habitations, Food, Domestic Life and Amusements - - - - - 184

CHAP. XVIII.

- Of the Manufactures, Boats, and Navigation of Otaheite - - - 209

CHAP. XIX.

- Of the Division of Time in Otaheite; Numeration, Computation of Distance, Language, Diseases, Disposal of the Dead, Religion, War, Weapons, and Government; with some general Observations for the Use of future Navigators - - - - - 225

CHAP. XX.

- A Description of several other Islands in the Neighbourhood of Otaheite, with various Incidents; a Dramatic Entertainment; and many Particulars relative to the Customs and Manners of the Inhabitants - - - - - 245