For orders the current range stands $15.50 @ $17.50, within which a few bills have been taken, but the orders offering are mostly small, intend. ed to cover early requirements only. Work at the mill is steadily progressing. There is no longer any scarcity of water, though the streams id to be falling quite rapidly. The new wover, are under good headway, and manu: turers count on a full supply.

Orders for hemlock continue to offer quite freely and mill representatives have their capacity well under engagement. Prices are firm, and no change in the value soon is anticipated.

GLASCOW.

The Timber Trades Journal of May 26, says The past week may be counted as the opening of the early summer market. There have been numerous arrivals to Clyde, as will be observed from the import list; and on the 23rd inst., as noted below, a public sale was held in Yorkhill yard, here, the goods cifered consisting of a large fresh cargo of birch and maple logs, also St. John, N. B., and Halifax, N. S., spruce deale.

The stock of last year's birch has been exhausted for a long time past, and this fresh cargo was expected to prove an attraction at the upening of the season; yet, although a good company was present, there was little spirited bidding for the birch or for deals. As noted below, the birch was not of large squares, so that the rates realized appear to be an improvement on last year's prices. A bid of 16d, for maple was given, but as the brokers were unable to obtain an advance on this figure, the wood was withdrawn.

Apparently, from the present weak demand for spruce deals, the supply meantime may be considered ample. Besides the sales of birch appended there were some made privately.

LIVERPOOL.

THE Timber Trades Journal of May 26, says The dull condition of our trade during the present week would, so far as it has gone, appear to point out that the consumers have hardly yet settled down to business after the Whitsuntide helidays, as there appear to be comparatively few orders in hand, or if they have resumed business, that the demand in well as 3x11 white deals, are being inquired for in general is far from strong. The latter supposition is far more likely to be the case than the former, and though it is by no means strange to hear reports from the country that orders are few in number, or trifling in amount, yet a survey of what is being done in the way of deliveres from the yards shows that the consumption of timber, &c., is not what it ought to make large concessions on their list prices to induce business. Their argument is some tange of prices for all kinds of whitewoods ought reducing prices for one third of our seasons proto slimulate consumption to some extent, as it is difficult to see how they can go lower than they are now, but apparently this has little

Spruce deals continue to be sold from the yard at declining prices, and at Messrs, Farnworth & Jardino's sale of Friday last, the 18th mst., when they offered 40,000 pieces, part of cargo landed ex steamer last season, only about 8,700 pieces changed hands. The lots sold were :--St. John, N. B., spruce deals-all the other dimensions, as well as the broad deals and 4th quality being withdrawn.

The imports continue light, and this should help to reduce stocks, though, with few except ions, they are moderate and would not stand any great domand upon them without affecting prices, were it not that we are now approaching the general import season; hence there is little prospect of enhanced prices being obtained unless something unforeseen should happen which might give an impetus to the trade. The reports of the condition of the building trades in the various districts supplied from this port are, are, however, so uniformly discouraging that little relief can be looked for in this direction, and we must only trust that the imports will be restricted as much as possible.

LONDON.

The Timber Trades Journal of May 26, says Business at the docks continues quiet, although vessels are dropping in from the timber ports; still numbers are confined to very small proporto the constantly diminishing piles. At a recent visit to Rotherhithe it struck us the freshly piled cargoes could be counted on the fingers, and we hardly remember to have seen the dock stocks at the end of May so reduced as they are at the present time.

SWEDEN.

The Stockholm correspondent of the Tember Trades Journal writing on May 19, says :- The weather being now warm and spring-like, the ports of the upper Bothnian Gulf are opening out rapidly, and before this meets the eye of your readers navigation will have commenced along the whole seasoard up to Haparanda. In the lower ports, the bulk of the first openwater fleet has already arrived, and loading operations commenced. With the exception of the Sundawall district possibly, the toninge of the vessels arrived is considerably less than last season. Comparatively few steamers are expected for London and other large importing English centres, while there is, on the other hand, a large number of small sailing craft chartered to convey sawn wood to a diversity of outports, both in Great Britain and on the Continent. The special feature of the present scason's business, so far, appears to be that a great number of small transactions have been ontered into, whereas large speculative purchases are conspicuous by their absence.

The same inanity and want of life which has characterized the f. o. b. trade the whole of this year still continues. An occasional transaction of a rotal character is reported, but, with the exception of the purchase of about 1,000 stand ards of Sundawall goods at low prices, nothing of note has come under my ken this month. The Sundswall purchases in question are reported to have I en affected at a trifle under a £10 basis for mixed 3x9 and 11 redwood, but I consider it right to mention that the transac tions released to are scarcely a criterion of the state of trade, terms of payment being exceptionably favorable for the seller. Considerable quantities of 21x61 and 7 whitewood battens, as well as 3x11 white deals, are being inquired for duction, when we have obtained our quotations | battens for Germany, and several transactions for most of the remaining two-thirds, and when we know that stocks are not large abroad, and that a fair consumption is going on, which will compel London and other large English ports to pay our rates before long? We prefer holding our unsold balance in the meantime, and reducing our production by working shorter hours." Such is the reasoning of more than one large exporter, and I leave it to my readers to form their own estimate of the value of the irguments.

I remarked, a short while ago, that the Spaniards have bought pretty freely of Swedish goodsthis season. According to a less an authority than Mr. H. R. Astrup, of this city, we are informed that one Swedish mill has arready this season sold to Spain wood goods to the value of about £60,000. This is probably the largest quantity that has hitherto been placed in that country by one concern during the course of a season, and gives additional probability to the opinion of those that hold that, with the possible exception of the Austraian Colonies, there is no market which gives such promise of increase in the consumption of Swedish sawn and planed wood within the next decade as Spain, supposing the import duties there to be saisiards have bought pretty freely of Swedish supposing the import duties there to be satis-
