

- by the Ohio Company at, i. 63, 138; Dinwiddie appoints a rendezvous at, i. 144; Washington at, i. 148, 150; Fry at, i. 156, 157; Braddock at, i. 203, 207.
- Wilson, Commissary, on the expedition against Ticonderoga, iii. 79; iii. 94.
- Winchester, Dinwiddie invites the Indians to meet him at, i. 146; Washington's headquarters at, ii. 16.
- Windsor, town of, i. 98, 278; ii. 288.
- Winnebagoes, the, at Montcalm's grand council, ii. 174.
- Winslow, Lieutenant-Colonel John, sent to the Kennebec by Shirley, i. 175; commissioned by Shirley to raise volunteers against the French, i. 254; sketch of, i. 255; in the luckless attack on Carthagenia, i. 255; forms a regiment, i. 255; in the attack on Fort Beauséjour, i. 258; letter from Captain Rous to, i. 259; journal of, i. 262; takes possession of Fort Gaspareau, i. 262; at Beauséjour, i. 263; Monekton informs him of his intention to remove the Acadians, i. 263; on Monekton's interview with the Acadians, i. 264; on the oath required of the Acadians, i. 275; ordered to seize the Acadians, i. 276; sets out from Fort Cumberland on his unenviable errand, i. 277; angered by Monekton's treatment, i. 277; at Grand Pré, i. 278, 279; his instructions from Lawrence, i. 279, 280; issues a summons to the Acadians, i. 281; the scene in the church, i. 282, 283; his portrait, i. 283; his anxiety for his captives, i. 286; a measure of precaution, i. 287; his grief, i. 288; congratulated by Murray, i. 288; heartsick, i. 289; arrival of the transports, i. 289; the embarkation, i. 289; his humane treatment of the Acadians, i. 290; commands the New England troops, ii. 69; letter from Lord London to, ii. 74; his headquarters at Half-Moon, ii. 75; letter from Colonel Fitch to, ii. 75; urges haste in the preparations against Ticonderoga, ii. 76; his meeting with London, ii. 87; at Lake George, ii. 88, 108; ii. 92; faced by Montcalm at Ticonderoga, ii. 108, 109; his estimate of Israel Putnam, ii. 115; his "Letter Book," ii. 116; on Lydiass, ii. 122; ordered to keep the defensive, ii. 126; his letter to Shirley, ii. 126; his letter to Halifax, ii. 127; ii. 183; cost to Massachusetts of the expedition of, ii. 290.
- Winslow's battalion, i. 285.
- Wolfe, Mr. or General Edward (father), iii. 24.
- Wolfe, Mrs. Edward (mother), letters from her son to, iii. 25, 27, 28, 29, 32, 112.
- Wolfe, Brigadier James, on Edward Cornwallis, i. 97; praises the conduct of Bradstreet, ii. 83; shows gallantry at Rochefort, ii. 253; iii. 29; reconnoitres at Louisbourg, ii. 262; an habitual invalid, ii. 263; attempts to land at Freshwater Cove, ii. 264; a bold movement, ii. 265; at Lighthouse Point, ii.