

be, it is thought, in conjunction with copious marginal notes, a welcome feature to all those who may have occasion to use this book in the laboratory.

The author desires to express his acknowledgements to Mr. F. W. Spanutius, M. Sc., Instructor at this University, for valued assistance in the preparation of the manuscript and in testing certain methods, and to Mr. E. W. Rockwood, A. M., Demonstrator in the Medical Department, for suggestions relative to the blowpipe analysis of alloys.

*Chemical Laboratory,
State University of Iowa,
Feb. 23d, 1891.*