KETCHUM-MAXWELL

A very interesting wedding took place in Vancouver recently when Mrs. Una Maxwell of Pasadena, California, became the bride of Carleton Ketchum, of the Vancouver Daily Province. Mr. Ketchum is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Q. Ketchum of Ottawa, and a grandson of the late Rev. Dr. Ketchum, of St. Andrews, New Brunswick. He was formerly a reporter on the Ottawa Citizen and served in the Fourth Division Artillery in France.

fignities, and tormented by the memoies of the fearful murder of her relatives, the little refugee fled from city to city and town to town until she met Mrs. Nazlie Kasparian, like herself a refugee from Harpoot.

The older woman took charge of Miss Assadoorian and together they worked their way to Aleppo, Syria, where they found safety and employment as nurses.
The two women have been together ever since and are now coming to this country together.
