THIS RECTOR HANDLE A MILLION SHIP IS THAT WHICH LINES SINGLY IN BERTH AT MACHINE MRS. GOULD GETS REBUKE FROM JUDGE

New York, June 11.—The will of Florence Belle Quincey, wife of Chas. E. Quincey, head of the Stock Exchange firm of C. E. Quincey & Co., at 80 Broadway, which was filed for probate at the Surrogate's office yesterday, disposes of an estate valued at about $1,000,000, but makes no mention of her husband. Mrs. Quincey, who was Florence Castleman, died at Tye Springs, Tenn., on May 31st, and her funeral was held at the Church of the Heavenly Rest last Sunday.

The will, which leaves the entire estate in trust for her son, was filed by Frank E. Holahan, of 141 Broadway, counsel for Willis Bruce Dowd, the executor. Mr. Quincey has been living in the Union League Club, and Charles E. Quincey, Jr., the only child, lives at the New Grand Hotel. He is 19 years old.

The will directs that if the income at any time insufficient to pay $25,000 a year the trustee is to sell enough property to make up the deficiency, "having always for his governing principle the betterment of the condition of the estate for the use and benefit of the said Charles Quincey, Jr., and only selling sufficient property to make said annual payments."

Mr. Quincey said last night that his wife had the right to dispose of her property as she chose, and that it was nothing unusual for her to be named in the will. He had been a member of the Stock Exchange since 1877.

Dr. Morgan's present address is the rectory of St. John's in the Wilder-ness, Cospatrick Iron Works Colum-bia county. He is a native of South Wales and is 66 years old. He re-joined in 1907 as active rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, say- ing that his strength was no longer equal to the work of so large a parish.

Exciting work it is, as the skipper will tell you, as he quietly smokes his pipe and gazes at the swollen waters of Lake St. Louis.

Have you ever gone a-whale hunt- ing? Or have you ever boarded one of those stout little vessels that year- ningly pursue their death throes levi- thans the deep?

Lying snugly at her pier at La- chine this week, with a sunken scow at her bow, is the good ship "Falken." This is a hunting ship, and she is as she floats on the high-water flood which covers even the streets of that historic spot. Her tonnage is not great, but she gives the impression of vast strength, as she tugs a heaf- hawsers and lifts gently with the swell. Her hull is black, with a dash of red about her waterline. She is a short, snappy ship with a good breadth of beam, ready for either the ice problem or the whale hunt.

As soon as his struggles have somewhat lessened the winch is brought into use, and by means of this, he is "pulled" very much in the same way as a fisherman pulls a fish by the reel on his rod. The strength of these animals is so enormous that it is not until long hours before the fish is safely secured. Alongside the ship are means of chain cables. It is then ready for the factory. The Falken is a good vessel, but I have seen a whale pulled ahead while the engines were work- ing full speed astern.

Exciting work it is, as the skipper will tell you, as he quietly smokes his pipe and gazes at the swollen waters of Lake St. Louis.

New York, N. Y., June 11.—What appeared to be the hazy memory of Mrs. Katherine Clemmons Gould, on this the second day of her testimony under cross-examination, caused a re- buke by Supreme Court Justice Dowling who is hearing her suit for separation against her husband, Howard Gould, second son of the late Jay Gould. Another interesting phase of the case today was a tilt between lawyer Delancy Nicol for the de- fence and Clarence J. Shearn for Mrs. Gould.

"Please try to be polite," Mr. Shearn cautioned Mrs. Nicol, when the latter asked the witness a question sharply.

"Oh, I'm sick of being polite, I've been polite all day and Mrs. Gould won't answer a straight question," retorted Nicol.

"Yes, the witness has given Mr. Nicol much unnecessary trouble," Justice Dowling interrupted.

As uncertain as the witness' mem- ory was at times, she did not fail to take advantage of that very fact twice when occasion offered. Once she apologized for her inability to tell whether certain restaurant checks were hers or not, explaining that she was interested in knowing "how her husband spent his money" and when she could not tell whether a dia- mond pendant valued at $13,300 was bought by her or Nicol for the "diamonds" she wore, she turned to Mrs. Nicol and vigorously against this insinuation and Justice Dowling with some asper- ity ordered it stricken from the re- cord.

The amounts figuring in assorted jewelers, tailors, costumers and boot makers' bills, continued to make the spectators admitted to the court room gasp and stare. The articles purchas- ed included the pearl rope which the witness wore yesterday and today, listed at $27,000; the disputed pen- dant at $13,300; a diamond chain at $22,000; a diamond diadem at $24,000 and a sapphire ring at $6,000. Such little things as $500 worth of silk stock- ings at a time, or $1,528 for shoes were trivial by comparison. Fine tailor-made suits were ordered at a cost of $5,807.

Because of the great crowd of curi- ous persons who gathered hoping to hear the testimony the court officers resolved themselves into a committee of selection to weed out those who were not entitled to enter.

Mr. Abner Kingman, who has just returned to the city from a visit to Northern Africa, to parts of Asia Minor and other sections of the older quarters of the inhabited world, pre- sented yesterday, during a brief in- terview, the two distinct sides of the Egyptian situation.

At Cairo he had a long talk with the head of the American mission, said Mr. Kingman, has made Egypt bloom like the proverbial rose. Thirty years ago irrigated land on the banks of the Nile was selling at $60 per acre, and to-day this same land would bring $1,200. Hence the value of the work that has been done in that country by the British. Im- provements are also contemplated on the Assouan dam, which will be raised no less than 28 feet, thus en- suring for all time the regular irri- gation at all seasons of the valley of the Nile. No one could, therefore, dispute the great and lasting benefits derived from English rule, yet there was a good deal of unrest amongst the students and those who have read considerably, as the National Egyptian party, with their inspiring cry of "Egypt for the Egyptians," is so much in evidence in the country.

The general impression, he added, was that the British government is too lenient, the consequence being that a good many cases of sedition have been signalled in the native press, while crime in the rural parts has been allowed in certain cases to go unpunished. Of late, however, two very important laws have been promulgated, which may have the effect of doing away with both of these difficulties in that other wide beautiful and very prosperous land.

IS IT WORTH WHILE?
It is worth while that we jostle a bro- ther
Bearing his load on the rough road
of life?
It is worth while that we jeer at each other
In blackness of heart?—that we war to the knife?
God pity us all in our pitiful strife.
God pity us all as we jostle each
other;
God pardon us all for the triumphs
we feel
When a fellow goes down; poor, heartbroken brother,
Pierced to the heart; words are keener than steel;
And mightier, far, for force and for weal.

Were it not well in this brief little Journey
On over the isthmus, down into the tide,
We give him a fish instead of a serpent.
Ere folding the hands to be and abide
For ever and ay, in dust as his side?
Look at the roses saluting each other:
Look at the herds all at peace on the plain—Man, and man only, makes war on his brother,
And dotes in his heart on his peril
and pain—
Shamed by the brutes that go down on the plain.
—Joaquin Miller.
