Fantee and Ashantee.

England has found another Abyssinia in Ashantee. It is not, however, to rescue imprudent missionaries, imprisoned Consuls, and too daring adventurers that Major-General Sir Garnet Wolseley has arrived at Cape Coast Castle, and will proceed to the interior of West Africa; but practically to maintain a valuable native alliance, and to protect the English coast defences themselves from an imminent danger. Distant expeditions are hazardous to English Cabinets, for the results seem remote and intangible, however brilliant, while the grumbling British tax-payer is always near by and annoyingly substantial in his propinquity. But the great colonial system, which, it must be confessed, pours continuous wealth into the lap of the Queen of the Seas, can only be sustained by expensive garrisons, frequent wars and a costly armament. And as long as England remains on African soil at all, Cape Coast Castle, its dependencies and alliances, must be maintained alike as a naval station, a commercial entrepot and a military post. The troubles with the Ashantees have lingered along until the Government has resolved to put a short and sharp period to them. This determination may lose Mr. Bright to the Cabinet, and thus alienate the forces of Dissent; but when a General of high rank and reputation is sent with an adequate force to organize an Ashantee expedition, provisions are collected, and an armament supplied with the latest refinements in warlike weapons, there can be no doubt that the question is settled, and that the war will proceed. The expense will embarrass the Cabinet, for it can scarcely fall short of a million sterling; that means the addition of a penny in the pound to the income tax, or some other fiscal burden equally obnoxious; and Mr. Gladstone will be embarrassed at the threshold of his new duties as Chancellor of the Exchequer with a proposal sure to be unpopular, however necessary.

The Ashantees are a powerful, courageous and persistent African tribe, with a bold and able King. The immediate cause of the present trouble was the attack made by this monarch of the jungles on the Fantees, a tribe quite as numerous though more peaceful and more civilized, occupying a territory between the English settlement of Cape Coast Castle and the Ashantees. The latter were not only victorious over their native rivals, but over the British succors sent out from the Castle; and up to the present moment the King of the Ashantees has vigorously held his own. British troops have again and again been repulsed; the country of the Fantees, and even their hut-built castle, have been occupied by the enemy; massacres and plunder have ensued, and thousands of the Fantees have been actually driven to take refuge within the inadequate shelter of Cape Coast Castle. A heavy battle several months ago resulted in such a flight to the castle of the Fantees that starvation threatened both Africans and English, and, to add to the distress, a vessel laden with provisions, and bound thither, was wrecked off the North African coast. The expedition about to be undertaken by Sir G. Wolseley will without doubt meet with a speedy success; for, besides the British troops, an army of 12,000 or 15,000 Fantees and other native allies will set out for the Ashantee capital. Whether the brave though savage Ashantee chief will meet with the fate of his brother Theodorus or not, the British will practically conquer his kingdom, and either bring him captive to Cape Coast and deprive him of his power, or else make him a forcible convert—as the Russians have done with the Khan of Khiva—to a British alliance.

VINEGAR BITTERS

PURELY VEGETABLE — FREE FROM ALCOHOL — DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA — EUREKA — VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.
