

It Pays to Advertise

Many country merchants do not see their way clear to advertise in their local papers. Whether they believe in advertising or not, they cannot get away from the fact that it is by advertising that the catalogue houses secure so much of the rural trade. The Moose Mountain Star puts the matter in suitable terms when it says that if the people who trade at a distance are induced to do so through advertising, by the same logical sequence those very people could be induced by advertising to trade at home. It is the people that pay attention to advertising that are induced through that very agency to deal away from home. Naturally those are the people who would read the home advertising if they were presented to them right.

Some "Best Literature"

A young man of Minnesota wrote to the late Governor Johnston, asking him what books had influenced his career. Johnston's letter in reply has now been published. Prescott's "Conquest of Mexico", was his first and made him wish to read more books "Ivanhoe", and all of Scott's works came next. Then followed Dickens, Thackeray, Shakespeare, Hume and Macaulay, and the history of France, Germany, Rome, Greece and Egypt. Not an American author is mentioned! Among the many best things that Uncle Sam can thank John Bull for are the works of the authors mentioned—the common inheritance of Anglo-Saxondom, which have stood the test of years.
