Dear Sir,-

I have your letter of the 1st.
The Unemployment Insurance Bill went through last night with certain amendments, but none affecting the substance much.

It proved impossible to hold all our men to the amendments calling for the application to be delayed until after the war. This was due to the fact that a similar Bill was supported by these men in 1935, and they felt that the public might not see the distinction between the application then and its application now. I quite favor the view and the argument you present and think it not unlikely that the country will regret the step it has taken at the present time.

Yours truly,
