

4. The preparation and reading by members and others of papers upon historical subjects.

5. The holding of a Historical exhibition with the object of eliciting the whereabouts of valuable historical material, and of fostering interest in such matters.